THE RE-DEDICATION.

A Big Day in the History of the Bellefonte Methodist Episcopal Church

BEAUTIFUL EDIFICE RE-OPENED

To the Public on Easter Sunday—Bishop Fowler and Other Distinguished Divines Assist at the 84th Anniversary of the Church's Foundation.

1817——1875——1901

Easter Sunday, 1901, will ever remain a red-letter day in the history of the Methodist church of Bellefonte. Doubly and trebly important was the day, for not only was it the glad Easter tide but it marked the 84th anniversary of the founding of Methodism in Bellefonte and also was the occasion of the re-opening to the public of their beautifully remodeled church which is undoubtedly one of the cosiest and handsomest church edifices in Central Pennsylvania. 1817-1875-1901 are the important figures in the history of this congregation. 1817 the church was founded here. 1875 the present church was built and 1901 it was again dedicated to the cause of Christ.

From early sunrise until late at night the services were kept up with short intermissions and the enthusiasm manifested was intense. At every service the church was crowded to the doors and the accommodations were taxed to their uttermost. The church was handsomely decorated with Easter lilies, roses, palms and violets and together with the Easter costumes worn by the ladies made the occasion indeed a trilliant one.

The morning services began at 10 o'clock with an organ prelude, Miss Carrie Bubb of Williamsport presiding. There was a large choir present and the musical part of the program was well rendered. The Apostles creed was then read led by Presiding Elder J. Ellis Bell and the Scripture lesson was read by the pastor, Rev. Wilford P. Shriner.

Mrs. J. W. Powell, of Buffalo, N. Y., sang a solo entitled "The Resurrection Morn." She has a voice of rare sweetness and power and besides is a thoroughly consecrated Christian woman. Her husband J. W. Powell had charge of the raising of the finances to pay off the debt incurred by the repairs and so successful was he that several hundred dollars over and above the amount desired was raised.

The dedicatory sermon was delivered by Bishop Charles H. Fowler D. D. LL. D., of Buffalo, N. Y. Seldom have the people of Bellefonte had an opportunity to listen to so eloquent a talker as Dr. Fowler. His text was taken from the Gospel according to St. Matthew "Come See the Place where the Lord Lay." He spoke for an hour and a quarter and held the closest attention of his audience.

In the afternoon the Sunday School held their Easter exercises in the newly refitted lecture room. The program was a fine one and was under the direction of the Superintendent J. Maurice Babb. A pretty feature was the graduating of a class from the Infant department. Each one was presented with a Bible by Bishop Fowler. The Sunday school contributed $600 towards paying the church debt.

In the evening the sermon was delivered by Rev. W. A. Spencer D. D. LL. D., secretary of the Church Extension Society. His text was taken from the 14th verse of the 5th chapter of Romans, "For the Love of Christ Constraineth." Rev. Spencer is an eloquent talker and was listened to with marked attention throughout his discourse.

Mrs. Powell again favored the audience with a selection, and an anthem was sung by the choir in which the solo parts were taken by Mrs. J. Maurice Babb and Miss Ella Twitmire.

Before the meeting closed the congregation had the satisfaction of knowing that every cent of their $15,000 indebtedness had been provided for and a little to spare. This is a great compliment to Mr. Powell for as a money getter he is certainly a hustler. Last Sunday at Wilkesbarre he raised $45,000 for the church there.

After the money had been raised Bishop Fowler formally re-dedicated the church with appropriate ceremonies.

These re-opening services will continue all the week and some of the most distinguished divines in the Methodist church will participate. Among the number being Dr. J. W. Hill, of Grace church, Harrisburg; Rev. Dr. E. J. Gray, Williamsport, and Rev. Samuel Creighton, of Salona.

The present Methodist church is a brick edifice and was built in 1875, Its first pastor was Rev. George Miller, who has since preached to some of the largest congregations in New York City. It was an unsightly structure and when Rev. Wilford P. Shriner, the present pastor, came here last Spring he at once began to agitate the matter of extensive repairs to it. He preached a sermon from the pulpit in regard to it and so stirred the people that the matter was at once taken up. Former Governor Daniel H. Hastings and F. W. Crider, were the prime movers in the affair.

Early last summer plans were submitted by Robert Cole, the architect, and were accepted and the work began at once. The repairs cost in the neighborhood of $15,000, which include also the parsonage which was also completely remodeled throughout. The church is practically a new one. The interior was completely torn out and refitted. Beautiful new stained glass windows were inserted, a new slate roof was put on and an addition to the rear of the church was built which increases the size and seating capacity. A new carpet covers the floor and handsome quartered oak pews, to harmonize with the interior hard wood finish and pulpit furniture, which is of the latest design, have been placed therein.

A fine Hook and Hastings pipe organ has also been placed in the church through the efforts of Mrs. Hastings, wife of former Gov. Hastings. The organ cost $2,500 and every cent of the money was raised by her from friends in the State. Many of the checks received from her friends were for $100 each. Mrs. Hastings will formally present this organ to the church at an organ recital this evening.

This church has one of the largest and most influential congregations in the town its membership being over 400.

The building committee was F. W. Crider, S. C. Hunter, W. L. Steele with the pastor, Rev. W. P. Shriner as chairman.

He Watched a Sulphur Stream.

We are pleased to learn that the Sportsmen's league of Centre county and the Snow Shoe Rod and Gun club are taking the necessary steps to prevent fishing and hunting out of season and especially on the Sabbath day, as it is known that one of their watchers, kept himself from all his companions for 4 or 5 hours to watch the north fork of the Beech creek, which stream runs with sulphur water, and hasn't had any fish in it for 25 years. It is feared that when he learns of his wasted effort, that the air will be more sulphurous with his expressive language than the stream is.—L. H. Democrat.

Claim Against the Government.

In response to a message from the government Claim Bureau at Washington, Willis Woomer, a conductor on the Beech Creek division of the New York Central railroad, left Jersey Shore Wednesday for Washington in the interest of a revolutionary war claim of $90,000,000 against the United States government. The Washington monument and several prominent Washington buildings are upon land claimed by the Woomers.

—Tuesday was the last day for employes of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, at Steelton, to be vaccinated in compliance with an order of the company. On Wednesday 300 men were laid off because of failure to comply with the order.

—Charles Wagner, employed in a saw mill at Lewisburg, Friday fell against a buzzsaw, which severed his hand. Wagner picked up his hand, walked to the telephone and summoned a physician to his home, and then walked home and had his arm dressed.

THE FRATERNAL SERVICES.

Held in the Methodist Episcopal Church Tuesday Evening.

Our Methodist brethren are having a very successful week for their re-opening exercises and the large attendance at Tuesday evening's, Fraternal meeting shows that the interest is in no way abating.

The exercises opened with an organ prelude by Mrs. J. Malcolm Laurie rendered in her usual skillful style. There was a large choir present and the musical program was well carried out. On the platform were Rev. R. Crittenden, Missioner; Rev. C. M. Woodson, of African Methodist Episcopal church; Rev. H. C. Holloway, D. D., of the Lutheran church; Rev. W. H. Brown, of the Evangelical and the pastor of the Methodist church Rev. Shriner.

An eloquent prayer was offered by Dr. Holloway and after singing by the choir Rev. Shriner in a neat manner introduced in their turn the different speakers of the evening. The only regret of the evening was that Dr. Wm. Laurie, of the Presbyterian church; Rev. T. Levan Bickle, of the Reformed church; Rev. George I. Brown of St. John's Episcopal church and Rev. T. W. Perks, of the United Brethren church were unavoidably detained away.

Short addresses were made by Rev. C. N. Woodson, Rev. R. Crittenden, Rev. W. H. Brown and Dr. Holloway. All congratulated the Methodist congregation on having such a beautiful edifice to worship in and on having raised the money so promptly to pay for it.

After the addresses Mrs. Geo. P. Bible and Miss Mary Bradley sang a very pretty duet entitled "Hark, Hark, My Soul." Both have very sweet voices which blend together beautifully.

After the singing of the doxology and the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Shriner the audience retired to the music of an organ postlude as admirably played by Mrs. J. Malcolm Laurie.

An Incident Recalled by Bishop Fowler's Visit to Bellefonte.

There are some of the most deeply interesting occasions taking place on earth too sacred almost to be made public in this present world; to be published only so far as to be made subservient to the highest welfare of any who may be influenced thereby.

In the early eighties, Bishop Charles H. Fowler providentially met the writer at the Lock Haven station waiting for his train. He spoke a few words of Gospel cheer most fraternally just at the time when such words were needed most of all.

The helpful impression made at that time has followed me ever since. Meeting that good Christian Bishop yesterday recalling to him this incident which he had entirely forgotten, with moistened eyes and throwing his loving arms around me he said "My brother, if we are permitted to meet in Heaven, I shall if possible be the happier there for meeting you here, God bless you."

DEATH'S CHILLY HAND

Has Caused Sorrow to Enter Through the Portals of Homes.

LOVED ONES HAVE BEEN CALLED

Family Circles Have Been Broken and There Are Vacant Chairs by Reason of the Summons Which Has Come.

THE TIME SET FOR THE FUNERALS

JOHN A. AIKEN.

John A. Aiken, a most worthy citizen and a prominent business man of our town, died at his home, corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets, Monday evening at quarter past seven of enlargement of the liver. He had been ill for several weeks but hopes were entertained for his recovery up until a few days ago so that his death has caused a shock to his many friends and cast a gloom over the whole community.

Deceased was born in Siglerville, Mifflin county, 62 years ago and was the son of Hugh Aiken. All his life he was a God fearing man and followed in the precepts of Christs teachings and when only 16 years of age united with the Presbyterian church at Reedsville. He entered Washington and Jefferson College and graduated with high honors.

Twenty three years ago he came to Bellefonte and engaged in the piano and music business, being the Junior member of the firm of Bunnell & Aikens. Later Mr. Bunnell retired and Mr. Aikens succeeded to the business. Strictly honest in all his dealings he won the confidence and esteem of the entire public and built up a lucrative business. He was a veteran of the civil war and as such was an enthusiastic member of Gregg Post, No. 95 G. A. R. He was also a member of the Royal Arcanum and of the Bellefonte Lodge of Masons.

Thirty-five years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Adaline Odenkirk, a native of Milroy, who survives him with their three children, Mrs. George B. Johnson, of Beaver Falls, Pa.; Emma Jane and John Earle, of Bellefonte.

He also leaves a brother and two sisters, namely, Mrs. Harey, of Bellview, Ohio; Mrs. Charles Moore, and William H. Aiken, of Altoona.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house. The friends are all urgently requested to attend the services at the house but the interment in the Union cemetery will be strictly private. Rev. Wm. Laurie D. D. will officiate.

A. M. MOTT.

A feeling of sadness pervaded the community Monday evening when the news became noised about of the death of A. M. Mott, which sad event occurred at his home on West High street at quarter past 7 o'clock, For the past six years he has been a patient uncomplaining sufferer from a complication of diseases which gradually but surely undermined his strong constitution until the angel of death finally stepped in to end his sufferings. He took his bed 6 weeks ago, the main cause of death being tuberculosis. Andrew Marlyn Mott was a model citizen and the expressions of regret at his death are widespread. It can be safely said that he did not have an enemy.

Born at Roopsburg, Nov. 26, 1865, his age was 35 years, 4 month, and 13 days. He was a successful business man having been in the marble and granite business in Bellefonte for the past 17 years.

Ever since early childhood he has been an earnest and devout christian and was a sincere member of St. John's Catholic church of Bellefonte. A worker in the church; he was promoter and secretary of the League of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and was a prominent member of the Rosary Society.

Sept. 29, 1892, he was united in marriage to Miss Adille A. Rolley, of Milesburg, who survives him with 2 children, Basil Fontenoy and Mary Barbara. They have two children dead, Laurette Rosalie and Andrew Marlyn.

He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Barbara Mott, of Roopsburg, and the following sisters: Mrs. Wm. Haviland, Mrs. C. F. Brown, Mrs. Thos. McMann, of Lock Haven; Mrs. Chas. Legg, Williamsport; Mrs. Fred Kemmerer, Bellefonte. He had one brother who died leaving a widow, Mrs. Sarah Mott, of Hazleton.

The funeral will take place this morning at 10 o'clock from St. John's Catholic church. Interment in the Catholic cemetery.

MRS. NANCY REYNOLDS.

Nancy, wife of George W. Reynolds, died at her home at Graysville, Centre county, Monday morning, after an illness of four days of bronchitis, which finally developed into bronchial pneumonia.

She was born in what is known as the Glade, near Rock Springs, 83 years ago. Her maiden name was Hill and 61 years ago she was married to George W. Reynolds, who still survives to mourn the loss of a kind and loving help mate. Ten children were born to this union, four of whom survive, namely, Walter, of Illinois; George W. of Graysville, Martha, of Tyrone and John at home.

The deceased belongs to one of the oldest families in the county. She was a kindly, christain lady, a consistent member of the Presbyterian church for over 70 years and a great worker in the church, Sunday school and Christian Endeavor. She was always neglecting herself in order to do something to lighten the burden of those around her. Her many lovely qualities endeared her to a host of friends and acquaintances.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. Love officiating. Interment in the Graysville cemetery.

HANNIBAL WILLIAMS.

Hannibal Williams, a very estimable young colored man, died at the home of Levi Pennington Saturday morning of consumption. He was born in Bellefonte and was 24 years of age. He was the son of Isaac Williams of this place. For several years past he has been a house servant in the employ of congressman Geo. F. Huff, of Greensburg. About two months ago he came to Bellefonte to recuperate his health. He was a very exemplary young man and enjoyed the highest esteem and confidence of his employer.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of Mr. Pennington on Penn street. Interment in the Union cemetery.

MISS JUNIATA BECK.

Miss Juniata Beck, who for several years made her home with Mr. Emanuel Noll, of North Allegheny street, died in a Philadelphia hospital Sunday morning. She underwent an operation which was believed would be successful but complications set in which resulted in her death. She was 35 years of age. The remains were taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Edmunds at Tyrone where funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Tyrone cemetery.

MISS SARAH EVERHART.

Miss Sarah Everhart died at her home at what is known as the branch near Lemont, Friday morning, of catarrh of the stomach, aged 61 years. She was a consistent church worker in the Presbyterian church at Lemont and was a member of one of the oldest families in the county, Her father was the late Benjamin Everhart, who was killed in a run away several years ago.

She is survived by one sister, Mattie, at home, four brothers, Alexander, of Altoona, John of Spruce Creek, and William and James at home.

His Body Mangled.

John Hall, of Bitumen, was found lying along the track west of the Park hotel station at Williamsport about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning. One leg was severed, the other was mangled, one arm was fractured, and he had other injuries. He was taken to the hospital. It is supposed that he attempted to cross the tracks and was run over by the cars.

—Judge Simonton of the Dauphin county courts on Saturday sustained a motion to quash the objections to the certificate of nomination of W. A. Magee, jr., of Pittsburg. Republican candidate for senator in the forty-third district, to succeed the late C. L. Magee, and directed the Secretary of the Commonwealth to certify the nomination to the Allegheny county commissioners. The forty-third district is between five and six thousand Republican and altho' there is a triangular fight on Mr. Magee will undoubtedly win out.

—The late Queen Victoria had a reputation for economy, rare among crowned heads, but her son and successor could have given the old lady some pointers on this subject, if reports be true. He is credited with cutting down the pay of nearly every one connected with his household, as well as dispensing with some of the offices that have come down from the days of Good King Hal.

—The New York State Assembly has passed a bill enabling the city of New York to accept Andrew Carnegie's gift of $5,200,000 for libraries.

Additional Locals.

—A wire suspension foot bridge across Pine Creek, leading from Coburn to Cedarville was constructed one day last week, to replace the old wooden one taken away by the last freshet. Andrew Vonada, of Coburn, was the chief architect and builder.

—Miss Altha Haupt, who recently visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Haupt of Bellefonte, has become Mrs. Moulton Semple Jr., of Philadelphia. Mr. Semple follows the plumbing business and the young couple have had the good fortune to start their married life in a home of their own making.

—Invitations are out for the marriage of Mr. John Hanna Yocum, of Newark, N. J., and Miss Florence Knapp, of Deposit, N. Y. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's mother, this evening at half after eight o'clock. Mr. Yocum, a former Bellefonte boy and a graduate of State College is well known here.

—The members of the Logan Engine Co., have reorganized their relief association and are now in shape to benefit under the state enactment of granting to fire companies in the State one-half of the two per cent tax levied on all foreign insurance companies doing business in the State. There are about $700 in the borough treasurer's hands now to be paid to the two Bellefonte companies.

—M. C. Gephart, of this place, has purchased the Aiken music store at Bellefonte. He will remain in town, but will not conduct a business here. Mr. Gephart has always been a very active dealer in musical instruments and for some time he has realized that Millheim was not centrally located for a vast amount of his work. The new location will afford many advantages for one of Mr. Gephart's ability and business activity.—Millheim Journal.

CHARLES H. WAITE.

A Former Bellefonte Young Man Dies at Pitcairn, Pa.

Charles H. Waite, formerly of Bellefonte, but late of Pitcairn, Pa., died at his home in that place Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock of paralysis. He had been ill since last January.

Deceased was born in Stormstown, Centre county, January 3, 1872, making his age 29 years and 3 months. He was the son of Henry Waite, deceased. For about two years he was a resident of this place, being in the employ of his brothers, J. S. and Darius Waite. About six years ago he was married to Miss Lena Weisner, of near Vail, Blair county.

At the time he was taken ill he was employed in the repair shops of the Pennsylvania railroad at Pitcairn.

Besides being survived by his wife he leaves his mother, Mrs. Anna Waite, of Bellefonte, and the following brothers and sisters: Darius, of Bellefonte; John S., of Lock Haven; H. Blair and Harry A., of Tyrone; Wilbur W., of Stormstown; Edward, of Snow Shoe; Mrs. Mary A. Stevens, of Kerrmoor, Clearfield county; Sarah J., of Springfield, Mass.; Mrs. Anna M. Forcey, of Woodland; Laura A., of Northfield, Mass., and Ella M., of Bellefonte.

The remains were taken to Tyrone, Pa., where services were held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in the United Brethren church at that place. Interment in the Tyrone cemetery.

"Fuss" Over Spilt Milk.

The friends of Miss Ethelyn Fisher, who was the dining-room girl at the City hotel, Williamsport, and who married Earl W. Henning, the wealthy farming implement manufacturer of Massillon, Ohio, last week, are greatly pleased at her good fortune.

The match was the result of "love at first sight" upon the young woman and the Ohio gentleman. Their acquaintance dated from a mishap in the dining-room, when Miss Fisher upset a glass of milk over Mr. Henning, while he was at the hotel. Although confused over the accident, the pretty waitress apoligized so gracefully that the heart of the stranger was touched and he decided then and there to lay siege to the young woman's heart. That he has succeeded is evinced by the wedding which was solemnized at Christ Episcopal church. Mrs. Henning is 22 years old and is very pretty. She is an orphan.

Given up to Die With Croup.

Mrs. P. L. Cordier of Mannington, Ky., writes: "My three year old girl had a severe case of croup, the doctor said she could not live and I gave her up to die. I went to the store and got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, the first dose gave quick relief and saved her life. For sale by all Druggist.

Mr. Josephs' Good Luck.

Mr. Emil Josephs, of Bellefonte, during the violent rise of Rock Island Wednesday, ordered 200 shares sold at 145 through the office of Charles D. Wolfe, whose New York connection did not close it immediately. Mr. Wolfe then cancelled the order and the stock closed at 151, the Bellefonte man thus making $1,200 more than he would have made at 145, and as the stock today reached 155, making $2,000 by not having his order executed.

A New Yorker, according to the "Commercial Advertiser," had a different experience. As an example of what havoc was created among the shorts in Rock Island there may be cited this man, who sold 3,000 shares at 143 and took it again at 150—loss in one clip $21,000.—Williamsport Sun.

For Over Fifty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cure wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by all druggists in all parts of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind.

Another County Added.

The Congressional Apportionment bill, as reported from committee, adds another county to the Sixteenth district, that of Cameron. If this bill is adopted the district will consist of Tioga, Potter, Lycoming, Clinton and Cameron.

"Stick To It."

Geo. L. Heard of High Tower, Georgia, writes: "Eczema broke out on my baby covering his entire body. Under treatment of our family physician he got worse as he could not sleep for the burning and itching. We used a box of "Banner Salve" on him and by the time it was gone he was well. The Doctor seeing it was curing him said, "Stick to it for it is doing him more good than anything I have done for him." All Druggist.

BEING INVESTIGATED.

General MacArthur is Looking into the Commissary Frauds.

GOVERNMENT SOMEWHAT AT SEA

Nothing Received Concerning Aguinaldo Yesterday, but it is Understood that he Would Like to Have Some Promises.

OPTIMISTIC VIEWS OF A JUDGE

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The following cablegram was received yesterday at the war department from Gen. MacArthur at Manila:

"Brigadier Gen. Robert P. Hughes reports surrender at Banga, Northwest Panay, March 31, thirty officers, 185 men, 105 rifles. Gen. Kobbe reports 21 men and 21 guns surrendered March 31, Northern Mindanao."

"Commissary frauds being investigated; not sufficient gravity to cause concern; apparently due irregularity sales savings Press reports inexact and misleading.

[Signed] "MACARTHUR."

Gen. MacArthur's dispatch, as well as other information received concerning the frauds, leave considerable doubt as to the exact character of these alleged speculations. Gen. MacArthur speaks of "sales." These sales consist of savings by the soldiers on the regular rations issued, which they are allowed to dispose of for their own benefit. Generally the savings are made a company matter and are disposed of in bulk to the highest bidder. They may be returned to the commissary department and bought in by the government at cost price, but there is no reason why they should not be sold elsewhere if the managers of the company fund should so desire. As army rations don't pay the usual duty imposed on similar goods used for private consumption, the soldiers could make quite a profit on their savings if they were of considerable amount. Sales from commissary stores, not included in the regular ration, are made to officers and men, but only upon a certificate or declaration that they are for the personal use of the purchaser. It is said that no great amount of such sales could be used by any person or persons without detection. Officers or men purchasing such stores and reselling them would be guilty of violating the army regulations and would be subject to court martial. As to the other savings, they are upon the regular rations issued to each company. They might be in flour, meat, sugar or any number of staple articles included in the ration. The money procured for the sale of such savings is usually devoted to the purchase of such supplies as are not included in the ration, and many delicacies and varieties of food are thus secured by the men in garrison or camp.

It was stated at the war department that Gen. MacArthur had made no communication relative to Aguinaldo yesterday and that the attitude of this government toward the insurgent chief had not changed. He is yet held as a prisoner and while he will be treated with kindness there is no disposition to allow him liberty until it is demonstrated that he intends to comply fully with the amnesty terms and his oath of allegiance. Aguinaldo is more than an ordinary prisoner and it has not yet been determined whether or not he is responsible for violations of the laws of war. His capture was made with a view of securing results and while Gen. MacArthur's dispatches indicate that these results will be very satisfactory they have not yet followed. A cable message sent last night was of considerable length and was quite specific as to the policy of the government. It is understood that Aguinaldo would like certain assurances or promises from the government and the message informed Gen. MacArthur just what the government would do. While it is believed that the insurrection would end before long without the assistance of Aguinaldo the government would be glad to make use of him to hasten pacification of the islands if it can be done consistently.

John G. Fullmer.

At 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon John G. Fullmer, died at the Roaring Spring sanitarium of rheumatism, with which he had been ailing for several months. Deceased was born in Centre county and was aged 58 years. He was a veteran of the late war, having served three years with distinction. He was a member of the Methodist church and also of the following orders: Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Mystic Chain, Post 462, Grand Army of the Republic, and the Railroad Relief. He was a man of excellent character and was highly esteemed by a host of friends. He is survived by his wife and these children: Mrs. E. J. Smith, of Pottsville; Frank, of Chicago; Ralph, of Altoona; Minnie, of Mount Etna, and Nellie, of Lock Haven.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon. Interment in Fairview cemetery Altoona.

—Snow Shoe suffered Wednesday from the biggest snow storm of the season. Twelve inches of "the beautiful" fell.

THE DEADLY COBRA.

How Venomous Creature Is Handled by Hindoo Snake Charmers.

The creatures were on the defensive, but not one of them attempted to strike at the master, who sat serenely in front of them, so long as he did nothing to annoy them. Kullan talked to them as if they were his dearest friends. After a time one or the other of them would lower its head, collapse its hood and begin to try to wriggle away. Whereupon Kullan would give it a smart little rap on the tail with his stick and bring it instantly to attention again. Whether this man possessed any special magic over these cobras or whether the description given below of how he could handle and play with them was simply due to his method I cannot say. He himself repudiated the idea of magic and asserted positively that any one who had the necessary nerve and dexterity could do exactly the same.

He used no reed instrument or music of any kind to propitiate the reptiles. He would simply squat on his haunches in front of them, and, after they had been hissing and swaying their uplifted heads backward and forward for a few minutes, he raised his hands above their heads and slowly made them descend till they rested on the snakes' heads. He then stroked them gently, speaking all the time in the most endearing Hindoostanee terms. The serpents appeared spellbound. They made no effort to resent the liberty, but remained quite still, with heads uplifted, and seemed rather to enjoy it. Presently his hands would descend down the necks about three inches below the heads, his fingers would close loosely around the necks, and he would lift them off the ground and place them on his shoulders. The looseness of the grip appeared to be the main secret. The snakes, being in no way hurt, would then slowly crawl through his fingers and wind themselves round his neck, his shoulders and his arms. They appeared to realize that no harm was to be done them, and they made no effort to resent the handling. He would pick them gently off one arm and place them on the other and, in fact, stroke them and pet them as if they had been a pair of harmless worms.—Cornhill.

A TIGRESS WITH A GRUDGE.

She Gets Furious at Sight of a Keeper Who Once Beat Her.

There is a lean tigress in the Central park menagerie who spends a part of the day beating her head against the iron bars of her cage in a vain attempt to spring upon one of the keepers. Ordinarily the animal is quiet enough. It is only when this keeper passes that she ceases to be a purring cat and becomes a fiend incarnate. The other morning the tigress was in an extremely bad temper. When her fancied enemy stuck a mop in through the bars to clean her cage, she sprang at him, growling in thunderous bass. Nearly everybody in the crowd stepped back involuntarily. The keeper placed an iron bar in the cage at the great cat's feet and went on with his work, while the animal snarled in impotent rage and drew back her upper lip over two gleaming white fangs.

"She doesn't seem to be fond of you," ventured a bystander.

"No, there isn't much love lost between us," replied the keeper. "Her tantrums show that animals treasure grudges just like people. That tigress came here eight years ago. A day or two after she arrived I had to punish her, and she has never got over it. She watches me all day out of the corner of her eye, and every time I go by the cage she makes a jump. I suppose she thinks she'll get me some time. If she does, I might as well say goodby."

While the man talked the tigress looked at him with hate plainly stamped on her face. When he went away, she watched him until he was lost to view. Then she resumed her nervous tramp, tramp.—New York Mail and Express.

BEDFELLOWSHIP.

The Time When Girls Exchange Confidences.

After the prolonged separation of a year when girl school chums meet again, they are apt to put off all conversation of intimate and private matters until bed-time. Then reviving dormitory days of old they open their hearts and tell the secrets accumulated in twelve long months. And some of these confidences are very sad. It is sad when the girl who was a crack at tennis, could pull an oar and swing a golf club has to admit that she has given up all those things because her back aches so incessantly. The pity is that such break-downs are so common among young women. They will continue to be common and to increase in frequency until the girl is taught that the stability of the general health is founded on the local womanly health.

A WOMAN'S WEAKNESS

may be gaged by her womanly health. "Female Weakness" is not a scientific term, but it is a popular term, expressing the result rather than the condition of womanly disease. Weakness must inevitably follow disease of the delicate womanly organs. Irregularity is often the beginning of more serious ailments. Drains that are at first considered chiefly as disagreeable, will in the end drain away the vigor and vitality of women. The prompt use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription would save many a woman from years of weakness and suffering. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

There is no other put-up medicine for woman's peculiar ills, purchasable from dealers which has so remarkable a record of cures as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When physicians have said no cure was possible; when all other means and medicines have utterly failed to benefit "Favorite Prescription" has been tried and its use has resulted in a perfect and permanent cure.

"Your letter just received," writes Miss Rose Kilfether, of 43 West Sharpnack St., Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa. "Words fail to express how thankful I am to you for your advice. I must confess that for the length of time I have been using your medicine I have found it to be the most wonderful and best remedy for female troubles that I ever have tried, and from now on I shall use no other. Sorry I did not know of your 'Favorite Prescription' years ago, but will gladly tell my friends who are suffering, of your wonderful medicine. I cannot speak too highly of it."

WHAT WOMEN SAY

about the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best testimonial to its wonderful curative power. There is no claim made for "Favorite Prescription" which is not backed by cures. Every statement made as to what this medicine will do is supported by the living evidence of what it has done. It has made weak women strong and sick women well. It has brought back the roses to faded cheeks and the plumpness to shrunken forms. It has given laughter for tears, and joy in life for utter misery. What "Favorite Prescription" has done it is doing every day.

"A few years ago I suffered severely with female weakness, and had at times dreadful pains," writes Mrs. Mary V. Brown, of Creswell, Harford Co., Md. "I went to my doctor, and he gave me medicine which did me good for a while, but I would get worse again. I had a sick headache nearly all the time; was so weak around my waist could hardly bear anything to touch me. My feet would keep cold and I could hardly do my work. I would work awhile and then lie down awhile; was completely run-down. Suffered from disagreeable discharge and also severe pains at times. After using five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, three of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and following the advice you gave regarding the 'Lotion Tablets,' I can truly say that I am cured."

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Doctor Pierce, by letter, free. All communications held as sacredly confidential and womanly confidences guarded by strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A great many women have gratefully accepted the opportunity of a free consultation by letter with Dr. Pierce, as a welcome escape from the indelicate questionings, the offensive examinations and obnoxious local treatments, thought necessary by some physicians. The modest woman shrinking from these things often lets her disease grow and eat into her life rather than submit to a treatment which offends her delicacy. A letter to Dr. Pierce avoids all these offensive practices.

If you are persuaded that Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription has cured others, do not allow yourself to be robbed of a cure by accepting some substitute medicine pressed on you by the dealer because it pays him a little more profit.

HEIR TO A FORTUNE.

Photographer Who "Did" State College Tossed Into Lap of Luxury.

H. B. Ehler, of Harrodsburg, Kentucky, a wandering photographer who with a wife and two children registered at the College Hotel in this town March 7th, by the death of his mother has fallen heir to $150,000.

Recently Ehler, who was with the Marie Wainwright company, was forced to quit the stage on account of the failure of his voice. Since that time he followed the occupation of traveling photographer, and worked through the central part of this State, "doing" State College in his travels.

Ehler was in Altoona when he learned the news. A friend from Philadelphia was passing through Altoona with the intention of looking for Ehler in Pittsburg, and had an inquiry for him published in the Altoona afternoon papers. This was last Saturday and Ehler, learning thus of his heirship, started the same night for his former home in Kentucky.—State College Times.

Thirty Years Without Speaking.

One woman at least in loquacious France, proved that she could hold her tongue, though it was not through amiability. A certain lady, the wife of a law officer at Versailles, while talking in the presence of a numerous party, made some remarks which were out of place, though not important. Her husband reprimanded her before the whole company, saying: "Silence, madame. You are foolish!" She lived thirty years afterward and never uttered a single word, even to her children. A pretended theft was committed in her presence, in the hope of taking her by surprise, but without effect, and nothing could induce her to speak. When her consent was requisite for the marriage of any of her children, she bowed her head and signed the contract. Needless to say, she died of it.

—We are glad to note that the condition of J. A. Aikens, who has been seriously ill for several days past, is very much improved and that his friends and family are greatly encouraged by the prospects for his ultimate recovery.

STATE OF TRADE.

Opinions of Certain Experts With Figures of the Week.

TRADE MAINTAINS ITS STRENGTH

No Signs of Lessening Demand is Perceptible in Any Branch of Iron and Steel Industry. Great Activity.

BUSINESS FAILURES OF THE WEEK

NEW YORK, April 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

While the general business world has looked with amazement at the performance of the stock market, trade has maintained its even course and there are many more points of gain than of loss with even a slightly steadier tone in the dry goods market.

No sign of lessening demand is perceptible in any branch of the iron and steel industry. Mills are accepting contracts for the closing months of the year and there is every indication that 1901 will surpass all records in the quantity of pig iron consumed by manufacturers. Though capacity has been wonderfully enlarged during the past five months, there are still many extensions and new plants contemplated. It is also probable that the customary summer repairs of furnaces and mills will be accomplished within a shorter period than usual. Contracts call for heavy deliveries right through the season. Permanence of prosperity in this industry is becoming more certain as there is less evidence of inflated prices. Regular quotations have not altered, except for bars and foundry pig iron, although all sorts of premiums are paid where prompt shipment is required. Although fewer ovens are active in the Connellsville region than a year ago, the output is much larger and about 3,000,000 tons were made during the quarter.

Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston are steadily increasing.

Wool shows a decline of nearly a cent since March 1 and five and a half cents compared with April, 1900. During the past two weeks, however, the market has steadied and there is much more trading.

After declining within a sixteenth of four cents cotton recovered half a cent.

Aggressive manipulation of corn forced prices to an unreasonable point, from which the fall was severe and wheat also weakened, although exports from the Atlantic coast were liberal.

Commercial failures in the first quarter of 1901 were 3,335 in number and $31,703,486 in amount of defaulted liabilities, of which 710 were in manufacturing for $12,504,222, and 2,468 in trading for $14,552,906, with 157 others not properly included in either class that owed $4,646,358. Banking defaults numbered 21 with liabilities of $3,441,389.

While exceeding the same three months of last year in number, failures were much smaller in commercial and financial insolvencies together showing a decrease of $21,532,180. Only two years of the last twenty made a better showing either in aggregate or average indebtedness in business. The new century has opened with business on no uncertain foundation.

Fire at the Match Factory.

Saturday about 6 A. M., fire broke out in the No. 2 dry kiln at the Penn'a Match factory and in a short time spread to the other kilns adjoining in which about one-third of a car load of matches were being dried. The fire alarm was turned in and soon the fire companies were on the scene. The fire raged fiercely but the efforts of the firemen kept it confined to the dry room and they soon had it under control. Fire brick walls separate the dry room from the rest of the factory and thus prevented its further spread.

The officers of the Penn'a. Match Co., wish to extend their thanks to the Logan and Undine Fire companies for their very prompt and efficient service rendered.

Henry Etters of Lemont Dead.

Henry Etters, of near Lemont, died at his home at that place, Saturday after a lingering illness from heart trouble aged 57 years. He was engaged in farming all his life up to a few years ago when he retired to private life on account of failing health

He was a son-in-law of Michael Grove and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sarah Grove Etters and one brother, John Etters, of Lemont.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment at Shiloh.

—During the coming summer the state of New York will erect a monument in honor of General Slocum on the Gettysburg battlefield and the Women's Relief Corps of Ohio will also erect a monument in memory of Jennie Wade the only woman killed during the great battle.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease.

It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition.

It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the vocal organs and disturbs the stomach.

It is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

This great medicine has wrought the most wonderful cures of all diseases depending on scrofula or the scrofulous habit.

THE BUFFALOES.

Pointers to Those Thinking of Joining the Prolific Bison Family.

The Hon. Carter Harrison, of Chicago, was initiated into the mysteries of the noble order of Buffaloes the other day and is said to have found the proceedings cheerful but not inexpensive. It seems to be a simple society, absolutely liberal in the selection of members and far from exacting in its requirements and ritual. The Buffalo herds grow rapidly, and they are found all over the country. So far as can be judged by the unbuffaloed, however, the society is not intended for teetotalers or for persons averse to spending money. If one of these hears the mystic inquiry, "Are you a Buffalo?" he may, if he choose, repeat the formal answer, "You bet your sweet life I am," an answer said to be matter of ritual; and then he should escape as rapidly as possible. There will be no money for him in staying. He must fly from the Buffalo wallows or be gored and trampled.

If in the innocence of his heart he merely says "No," the crafty Buffalo replies: "I will initiate you for 11 cents." Beware of that sacred and cabalistic number, 11. There is a good deal more in it than meets the ear. If you happen to have exactly 11 cents, give the Buffalo that and you can make your escape alive. For the great principle of the Buffaloes is to return nothing which they receive. So they must be dangerous fellows to lend money to.

The Hon. Sol. Bloom, of Chicago, is said to have founded the Buffaloes at San Francisco in 1897. Allow him to describe their high purposes:

"The prime principle of the Buffaloes is never to return anything given to a member, and all members use their left hands for everything. For instance, when a member joins a party of friends, and the crowd adjourns to a bar to get liquid refreshments, the one who holds his glass in his right hand has to settle for the drinks. Should a man give me his watch I cannot give it back to him, but he may buy it from me by buying refreshments for the crowd. In San Francisco, where the joke started, it was customary to tell a friend you would initiate him and tell him all the points of the order for 11 cents. But in that part of the country pennies are seldom seen and it is a hundred-to-one shot he will hand you anything from $5 to $20, expecting to get his change, but he doesn't get it. He receives the pleasure of being with the crowd that helps spend his money. When it is spent he is a full-fledged Buffalo."

Mr. Bloom says that a Chicago man is now suing to recover $100 which he gave to a Buffalo to pay for 11 cents worth of initiation. There is a man of niggardly spirit and unworthy to be a Buffalo.

The Buffaloes are said to be spreading in the east, but now that their hostility to making change is known and the 11 cents formula understood, their receipts may be impaired. But perhaps they have deeper mysteries of which the Hon. Sol. Bloom has not told.

A puny child is always an anxiety to the parents. There seems generally no reason why the little one should be weak when it is so well fed. But the fact is that it does not matter how much food the child takes if the stomach cannot extract the nourishment from it. No benefit can be derived from just eating. That is the condition of many a sickly child. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are not doing their work, and the body is really starving. It is little use to give fish foods, like cod liver oil or emulsions, in such a case, because these also have to be digested; they may lighten the stomach's labor but they don't strengthen it. Strength is what the stomach needs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves and increases the action of the blood making glands. It is superior to every other preparation for children's use, on account of its body building qualities, and also because it is pleasant to the taste and contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a valuable aid when the bowels are irregular. They are small. Children take them readily.

Fierce Fight With Big Dog.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., April 6.—A fight between a man and a St. Bernard dog occurred here Tuesday morning, which resulted in the man being badly lacerated and the dog being killed. The animal belonged to Dr. Robert J. Kingston, surgeon of the Fifth Separate Company. The doctor, who had been out during the night attending patients, remained in bed late. The dog had been playing in the yard with the doctor's daughter, and suddenly ran into the house and up into the physician's bedroom. There he was seized with convulsions.

The doctor jumped from bed and caught the dog by the throat, warning everybody to leave the house. His aim was to get the animal into the adjoining bathroom, but not until his arms and hands were frightfully bitten, did he succeed.

It was a life and death struggle, and lasted for nearly an hour. Dr. Kingston's cries for help were heard by Bryant Odell, the youngest son of the Governor, who was staying at his grandfather's residence across the way, and the boy telephoned for the police.

When assistance came the dog was thrown out of the window, breaking his neck.

Colds for April.

April comes to us with 17 "high flood" days. Earth is passing through sign Scorpio "house of friends" opposed by the sign Taurus "house of children. Therefore we have reason to believe that children and all vegetation will receive terrible afflictions from diseases microbes, and we warn everyone to guard well during the low ebb days, which will be the 1st, 2nd, 7th, 9th, 12th, 13th, 25th, 27th, 28th, 29th and 30th. There will be a strong tendency to bring about a more peaceful feeling among the powers at war, and an opportunity will be given to adjust their claims and be at peace. Should they not accept nature's offer, then many unexpected uprisings in other kingdoms will appear, as earth month will be in the house of enemies. The greatest danger periods from storms will be between the 2nd, 7th, 10th and 16th, 18th to 22nd; and from the 23rd to the 29th. Only partial breaks appeared in the gaseous matter passing over the sun last month, and we have reason to believe that the meteorological condition during this month will be much the same; there will be a great downpour of rain that will cause destructive floods in many sections of the country, snow blockades, fierce hail storms, cyclones, and tidal waves, awful electrical displays and tremendous thunder vibrations. The cold wave and the heat wave will pursue each other in battle array.

The best days to perform surgical operations will be the 6th, 15th and 24th, and the next best days will be the 4th, 11th, 19th and 23rd. Never perform a surgical operation when the moon is passing the sign in which the subject was born. Keep your system in order, for we have reason to believe that small pox, skin disease and stomach troubles will increase and cause much alarm. Every house should be fumigated with rosin this month. Put a lump on a tin plate and set on two bricks or a stone to keep it off the floor, light the rosin and let the smoke fill the rooms. This will destroy all insects and microbes and will not injure the furniture as sulphur will.

GOVERNOR STONE'S appointment of Major A. M. Brown to be Recorder of Pittsburg has apparently won for him a public commendation which he was sadly in need of.

GOVERNOR STONE'S appointment of Major A. M. Brown as Recorder of Pittsburg, was accompanied by a large consignment of 18 carat gold-bricks for the Pittsburg contingent of the machine.

IF the appointment of the Recorder of Pittsburg was the result of a deal and the deal pledged the support of Allegheny county to Stone for United States Senator, Penrose for re-election and Elkin for Governor, it is not to the credit of those who accepted the conditions no matter what concessions were yielded in return.

COLONEL BRYAN seemingly forgets that the people of the United States twice elected Mr. Cleveland, and have twice elected Mr. McKinley to the highest office in their gift, and have twice refused to elect Mr. Bryan to that same office. Considering these facts, a little respect towards at least one of the gentlemen by the blatherskite editor of the "Commoner" might not be out of place and would surely be to his credit.

AMONG the eulogies pronounced upon the late Christopher L. Magee at the recent Magee memorial service held in the Senate Chamber at Harrisburg none expressed a greater or a more beautiful tribute to the life and character, private and public service of the lamented leader than that of our representative in the State Senate, the Honorable William C. Heinle.

While Senator Heinle's address was but the reiteration perhaps of sentiments voiced by those who had preceded and followed him at the memorial service, and, indeed, that had been expressed by the press of Pennsylvania and other States when Senator Magee's untimely death made him the subject of universal regret and sorrow, his eulogium was couched in such simple language and uttered with such earnestness and consciousness of conviction that it lost the caste of a perfunctory encomium and stood forth as a fervid, heartfelt tribute to the memory of a fellow citizen he knew and for whom he entertained the profoundest respect and esteem. Senator Heinle's address, which it is our honor and pleasure to publish in full, will be found on this page.

THE COMPLETION OF THE STATE CAPITOL.

The huge barn-like structure at Harrisburg which is designated as the State capitol building and resembles a factory warehouse or an unfinished eleemosynary institution, is the product of a building commission composed of a bunch of State executive and legislative officials whose successors have been named in the Fox capitol bill as the commission to be intrusted with the completion of the State's present capitol monstrosity.

We say "completion of the State capitol," notwithstanding the fact that the old capitol building commission made a statement under oath and to the courts, that their structure was complete and ready for occupancy. Any one who has seen the capitol building will, we are sure, admit that it represents a state of incompleteness that justifies the assertion that the edifice, if it is worthy the dignity of such a designation, is a disgrace to the Commonwealth, a reproach to the commission under whose supervision it was erected; an unsightly monument to their incapacity, their reckless waste of public funds and their readiness to prostitute their offices of trust and their obligations to the people of Pennsylvania to a gang of machine contractors and builders.

The dignity of the State demands that it should have a suitable capitol building, one in keeping with its wealth and station, and perhaps an appropriation of $5,000,000 is not excessive, but it would be a flagrant dissipation of public funds if it is permitted to be expended by a commission, identical except in name, with that whose reprehensible service in the first capitol building venture has made an additional expenditure of a vast sum of money for like purpose a necessity.

The first commission was composed of Governor Hastings, Auditor General Mylin, State Treasurer Haywood, President pro tem. of the Senate McCarrell and Speaker of the House Boyer. Everyone is familiar with the rupture which took place in the commission by the refusal of four of the members who were, and are yet the serfs of Pennsylvania's Czar, to abide by the result of a competitive contest for the selection of an architect. The successful competitor was not the choice of Messrs. Quay and Penrose and consequently their puppets on the commission were instructed to stand for the annulment of the competitive scheme to which the entire commission had at its inception subscribed.

All know that Governor Hastings, who steadfastly maintained that the commission was pledged to the people of Pennsylvania to carry out the plan orignally designed for the erection of a capitol building and who used his best efforts to dissuade the rebellious members from a dishonorable and perfidious course, retired from co-operation with the commission when he found that he was unable to hold them to their plighted word and keep the commission free from the taint of corruption and censurable influence. The hideous pile of brick and mortar that is today a blot on the State's reservation in the capital city is the product of four-fifths of a commission who performed their functions, not with the interests of the people and the honor of the State at heart, but solely for the purpose of extending the influence and power of a political machine to whose existence they owed their official station, on whose success their future depended.

The people of Pennsylvania have had a costly experience with machine building commissions and they are distinctly adverse to the creation of another. The Fox capitol bill provides for a commission to be composed of the Governor, Auditor General, State Treasurer, President pro tem. of the Senate and the Speaker of the House. The same old coon who moulded the minds and shaped the course of the commission number one, would perform similar service for number two. The Fox commission would serve the purpose of the machine with an unanimity of action because we have a Governor Stone now where we had a Governor Hastings before.

Let us have none of it. Place the completion of the capitol structure and the disbursement of the $5,000,000 in the hands of men who are not involved in political schemes and whose future is not dependent upon the fortunes of a political party or faction. Give us men for this service whose names are synonymous with every term that designates the attributes of a man whose life and character is above reproach. There are plenty such in Pennsylvania and they are widely known. The selection would not be difficult to make. Complete the capitol; spend $5,000,000 if necessary to give us a structure worthy of our State, but place the enterprise in the control of men who represent the people and stand for their interests, and not in the hands of creatures of a political machine subservient to its necessities and demands.

GIVE THE SURPLUS TO CHARITY.

The final settlement of the accounts of the McKinley Inaugural committee have been made and the result shows a profit over all expenses of a little more than $5,000. The men who had guaranteed the payment of the expenses of the grand stands erected along the line of march of the inaugural parade and the inaugural ball held in the Pension office in case the receipts were insufficient to defray the expenditures have had their checks returned to them.

The question of the disposition of the surplus has not been definitely decided by the committee. Various suggestions have been offered by the Washington press, more in the spirit of jest we are disposed to believe than with a desire to secure the money for a deserving cause. For instance, it has been recommended that the excess be applied to the erection of a column to commemorate the victory of McKinley and Roosevelt. Another equally commendable (?) suggestion is that it should be used to pay the claims for damages charged against the Pennsylvania troops "as a mark of appreciation of the fact that their attendance there made the realization of a profit a possibility." Another is that it be used in whole or in part in buying a loving cup for the chairman of the inaugural committee.

The only hint thrown out to the committee with reference to the expenditure of the surplus that has merit and is worthy of serious consideration is that the profit should be appropriated to charitable purpose. Sweet charity is ever needy, and never too much grist goes to her mills for use in alleviating the woes and sufferings of the poor whom we have always with us. Let charity be the beneficiary of the inaugural committee. No better use could be made of its inaugural surplus.

QUITE as remarkable as the wrecking of the Pacific Mail Steamship Rio De Janeiro just at the entrance to San Francisco harbor on February 22 is the total disappearance of the wreck. Divers have explored large areas of the bottom of the sea at the point where the vessel is supposed to have sunk, and, it is stated, not the slightest trace of the ill-fated ship has been found. Another mystery to remain unsolved until that time when even the seas will unfold their impenetrable secrets.

KENTUCKY is moving to the front in its progress toward civilization. The rights of the Kentuckians to kill each other is being restricted. Recently a turfman was sentenced to twenty-one years imprisonment for killing a saloonkeeper, and one horse trainer has been given a life sentence for killing another. Soon the Blue Grass Commonwealth will be a reasonably safe place in which to reside.

IT is a hundred to one chance that Mr. Quay's Legislature will, under orders, dodge the ballot reform bills. The Boss and de gang don't want any ballot reform legislation not of their own creation and they are afraid to take risks. The present system suits them all right and they will hold on to it until they can get something better for their use.

SENATOR HEINLE'S TRIBUTE TO THE LATE SENATOR MAGEE.

MR. PRESIDENT: We are assembled here today to pay our last tribute of respect to an eminent member of this honorable body; to a leader in Pennsylvania legislation; to a man whose sole aim in every position in life, and at all times, was to better the condition of his fellowman—in brief, one of nature's noblemen, that best of all things human, a Godlike, manly man, the late Senator Christopher L. Magee.

In all ages and in all countries of the civilized world men have honored the patriotic dead and, for the time being, turned aside from the cares and conflicts, the duties and demands of life, to recall their worth, their virtues and their triumphs; and in kind and loving language render to their memory tributes of love and respect.

And while it was not my pleasure to personally know Senator Magee until two years ago, yet it is befitting that some one who stood at a greater distance from him and can dispassionately measure this man's worth, should be permitted to bring his contribution "to the chaplet to be woven in his praise."

While he was a man of great power in the Senate, and would have been able to sway legislation in almost any direction, yet his lofty thought for the rights and privileges of the whole people was so strong that his chief aim was for laws that were for the welfare of both rich and poor, capital and labor alike. And under no circumstances would he wield his power as a legislator for personal interests and against the welfare of the common people.

Senator Magee's high sense of honor kept him always true in his official conduct to his convictions of duty. He was incapable of deception, and would never define or accept an attitude on any legislation that might cause him the least embarrassment in the full performance of his work as a Senator. He was aggressive upon all occasions, but he was one of the men who, when they uncover their hearts, when they remove the veil from their mind so that all men can see the honest processes of their thought, and know all the emotions of the man himself, then aggressiveness is given nobility and from party struggles taken both hypocrisy and suspicion. If men were endowed with a full understanding of each other in these daily strifes, if we could see in each other's hearts that love for country and our fellow-men was the basis of our best efforts, and that our greatest desire was to build upon that foundation which is best for that country and fellow-men, we would have more toleration for those things which we now fail to comprehend. And when we view the life of Senator Magee, consistent, vigorous, and always earnest, I fail to find but one way to read it aright, and that upon the simple but truthful explanation that he was solely what he professed to be, a true American from principle, and always for the best interests of the country and the people at large.

Mr. Magee's many kindly acts for the poor, the helpless and the needy, all have been mentioned by others. Probably the most impressive of any was the newsboys and bootblacks and the unfortunate youths who, at some time or other, met with accidents, all in line, showing that they were the halt and the maimed who always had a friend in Mr. Magee when they needed aid. When they marched to the bier, one after another, each bearing a red rose in his little hand to show their appreciation of their dead friend, it came with such force and such power that it would have melted the heart of any man, even though it were made of stone. It made me think that here was another Lincoln for humanity, befriending, caring and protecting those who could not care for and protect themselves.

It brought most vividly to my mind the sturdy, forcible character of the man in his political life. Mr. Magee was what I call a stalwart Republican, for all that the word stalwart means. He believed in his party as he believed in the existence of himself. He supported and maintained his party's principles as he supported and maintained the wants of needy humanity. In other words, it was his religion to be a Republican in this country, advocating the principles of his party in all National affairs, and in all the affairs of the State, from his standpoint, which was conscientious and which was truth to him. His ideas of government must have been democratic by nature. Uppermost in his mind was the idea of the power, the purity and the strength of independence. And the question now is, notwithstanding his life-long service, devotion, influence and energy that he spent as a Republican in all the affairs of the nation, that his stand for independence, and the still enlarging of the powers and the gifts that this government has to give to its people in Pennsylvania was in line with the thought of Lincoln for the independence, the welfare and promotion of all the people in this land. This impresses upon us the question that we must sooner or later face in this government as loyal citizens, both as individuals and as a compact. Did Mr. Magee see, in his wonderful capacity that he seemed to have had for the welfare of his neighbors, that independence of thought and action of its citizens would be for the welfare of this nation? Did he see the fact that the minds of the American people have been educated for self-government, and that their hearts are born loyally for all patriotic purposes, so that ultimately, the day had come in our government when our people were firm and strong enough to carry out its principles without party organization? Every one will admit that the greater the responsibility placed on an individual the stronger he grows to perform the duties of his station in life. If this be true, independence in politics will give strength and individual power to our citizens, and the long-wished-for glory to our government. This, to you, may seem a strange assertion for me to make, being a Democrat, but as we believe the Democratic party is absolutely for the people, it makes each member an individual thinker for his government. This was shown in one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six when a majority of individuals declared for one man, and upon a reconsideration, as it were, the same people changed their preference and gave their consent for another simply for the welfare of all concerned. These facts, it seems to me, were the ideals of Senator Magee's highest ambition. He sought by his every act and deed to bring the people in closer touch with the affairs of both State and nation. Strong in the belief that this government "of the people and for the people" should be "by the people" as well. Staunch and true to the doctrine and principles of his party, yet he, at all times, stood ready to ally himself with any movement for the good of the masses and to stand firm against any move that would in any way interfere with the exercise of the full power and liberty of all the citizens of this Commonwealth.

In all epochs of our country's history, there have been men whose lives seemed to the people of our nation as a sign board directing them which way to go. Throughout his entire career Senator Magee's life was ideal; his kindnesses and good work among the poor and needy; his interest in and concern for the city of Pittsburg, the city whose great growth and prosperity today is vastly due to the fostering care and guiding hand of the dead statesman, and his unselfish devotion to humanity, are the crowning elements of his life-work, that truly make him beloved and revered as one of the distinguished sons of this Commonwealth, and as a fitting epitaph for the consummation of his career, indelibly stamped in the hearts of our people is the glowing thought, "He was one who loved his fellow-man."

For these reasons and many others, all known to the people of the State of Pennsylvania, I desire to say for the people of the Thirty-fourth Senatorial district, that all its citizens bring their laurel wreath to bedeck his name, and for his life "they plant evergreens to his memory," and upon their heartstrings they hang the image of his manhood; looking aloft for aid to better the conditions of the affairs of the people; thus emulating the example of the deceased in perpetuating the government founded for all humanity.

A CASE OF SNAP JUDGMENT.

The expected has happened: The alleged "gigantic frauds" in the commissary department of the army at Manila turn out to be myths and to have had existence entirely, it may be said, in the imaginations of excitable and too zealous newspaper correspondents. General MacArthur has advised the government officials at Washington that the so-called "frauds" are of a character and importance to cause no concern whatever and adds that the appearance of them was occasioned by the irregularities in the sales of company savings. So ends another attempt to cast odium on the administration through the war department.

The sale of company savings, to whose trifling irregularity General MacArthur ascribes the source of the commissary scandal (?) is the surplus saved by the soldiers from their regular rations which the army regulations permit them to dispose of for their own benefit. As a rule the savings are made a company matter and are sold in bulk to the highest bidder. They may be returned to the commissary department and bought in by the government at cost price, but there is no reason why they should not be sold elsewhere if the managers of the company fund so elect. As army rations do not pay the usual duty imposed on similar goods for private consumption, the soldiers could make a nice profit, and a legitimate one, on their savings if they were of considerable amount.

Some person, or persons, evidently came across company savings, sold in this manner, in private possession, and jumped to the conclusion that a gigantic steal was under way in the commissary department, a plausible surmise to be sure, yet a cursory investigation would have corrected the mistaken inference. The anti-administrationists greeted with avidity and delight this chance to berate the administration but, as in similar instances, they chased a phantom and enacted an amusing comedy of errors.

IT is all right for rich men like Mr. Carnegie to give away some of their superfluous wealth, but we miss our guess if those poor and misguided persons in the State of Washington, who are selling their homes while in a state of religious enthusiasm, and giving away the money, do not live to regret it. Religious exhorters and fanatics who encourage such sacrifices should be driven from post to pillar. Their service to the cause of Christianity is of a questionable character. The Lord loves a cheerful giver but we do not believe he sanctions a reckless waste that can only result in poverty and destitution.

SECRETARY GAGE, acting on an opinion by Attorney General Griggs, has decided that Chinese born, or naturalized in Hawaii previous to annexation, are citizens of the United States and entitled to entry at any port. This is probably a just decision but all the same it would be wiser for the Chinese in Hawaii to stay there, it is safer—for them.

DEMAGOGUE LENTZ, of Ohio, who has been retired from Congress, to the great benefit of that body and to the credit of the citizens of his district, has again won notoriety by denouncing the capture of Aguinaldo. Lentz is said to resemble Aggie. It can only be in appearance, however, since Aggie is said to be a man of intellect and gentlemanly deportment.

ILLINOIS, in which state Professor Woolley, the Prohibition candidate for President, lives and in which he prosecuted his most active canvass, gave him proportionately fewer votes than Wisconsin, the chief brewery state of the West. This illustrates the peculiarities of political practice.

So many housewives suffer from nervous depression due to catarrhal weakness peculiar to their sex, and suffer on year after year, not knowing what their ailment is. Mrs. Mary Cook, of Pittsford, N. Y., suffered for six years before she learned of Peruna. Mrs. Cook recently wrote the following letter to Dr. Hartman:

"I was not well for six years, paid many doctor bills, but never improved very much. I gave up hopes of ever recovering.

"Finally, I wrote to Dr. Hartman, and I am thankful to say that I am now well, through his good advice and medicine. I am gaining in flesh and feel young again. I was very emaciated, but now my own children are surprised in the great change in me when they visit me."

Miss Annie Zlott, 72 Livingston street, Newark, N. J., took Peruna for extreme nervousness. She says: "I was very ill and thought I would die. I had a terrible headache and my head swam; I thought I would never get well; I seemed to have a great complication of diseases and bought medicines, but they did me no good.

"Finally I gave up and thought I would wait for my end. One day I happened to pick up one of your books. I read of other women who were near death and had been cured by Peruna, so I thought I would try it.

"I took a couple of bottles and began to feel better. I continued its use until now I am a well woman. I praise Peruna highly and wish other women would use it."

Mrs. Anna Roes, 2813 North Fifth street, Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

"Four weeks ago I believed I had consumption; I took a severe cold, and although for the first few days the mucus in my throat and chest was loose, it finally became so bad that I had difficulty in breathing.

Pain in the shoulders followed. As I had placed my confidence in you and Peruna, I followed your directions strictly, and improved from day to day, and am now well again."

Most women feel the need of a tonic to counteract the debilitating effects of summer weather. Peruna is such a remedy. It cures all catarrhal conditions whether it be weakness, nervous depression or summer catarrh. For a free book on summer catarrh, address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Spring Opening of the Bellefonte Academy.

The Spring term of the Bellefonte Academy will open on Monday, April 15. Students of schools which are closing at this time of the year should take advantage of the excellent courses of instruction given at the Academy and apply for admission at once. No examination is required. Applicants are placed in classes where they can do the most thorough work. It should be remembered that the records prove that this Bellefonte institution furnishes a grade of instruction that students at our wealthiest preparatory schools are obliged to pay hundreds of dollars to secure. The three-fold purpose of the Academy is to prepare for college, business and teaching. The school schedule is arranged to suit the several railroad schedules. Students may enter at any time and be charged from time of entrance.

—Charles Clinton, the 18 month old son of Harry C. and Margaret E. Smelser, of Altoona, died Friday evening from poison. About 10 o'clock in the morning the child went to the kitchen cupboard where on a lower shelf was setting a dish containing a quantity of dye, which had been used in coloring Easter eggs. The child swallowed a mouthful of the dye and then went into the sitting room where on the table lay several morphine pellets, which had been prescribed for the mother, and which she had let lay for a few minutes. He caught hold of the table spread and in pulling it the pellets dropped on the floor, and he picked up several of them, it is not known how many, and swallowed them. A physician stated that two pellets were sufficient to cause death.

—Some writer asserts that a French woman will love her husband if he is either witty or chivalrous; a German woman, if he does not disturb her ease and comfort too much; a Spanish woman, if he wreaks vengeance on those who incur his displeasure; an Italian woman, if he is dreamy and poetical; a Danish woman, if he thinks that her native country is the brightest and happiest on earth; a Russian woman, if he despises all westerners as miserable barbarians; an English woman, if he succeeds in ingratiating himself with the court and the aristocracy; an American woman, if he has plenty of money.

Wreck on the Beech Creek.

Two freight trains, one a double header, collided on the Beech Creek road between Munson's and Clearfield Friday night. The three engines and several cars were badly used up. Ambrose Ritter, an extra passenger conductor, who was riding on the engine of the west bound train, was thrown out against the bank. One of his legs was broken and the other was crushed. He was taken to the hospital at Philipsburg. A wife and three children reside in Jersey Shore.

One of Mr. Ritter's legs was amputated Sunday. His condition is hopeful.

—Alfred G. Wormser & Co., directory publishers of Pittsburg, have just completed directories of Tyrone and Lock Haven. Their work is highly praised by the press of our sister cities. Representatives of the company are now endeavoring to interest the business men of Bellefonte for a directory of our little city.

Napoleon's Death; Queen Victoria's.

A historian says that, when the public crier announced Napoleon's death in the streets of Paris, the news fell flat. There was a time when the same cry would have shaken the foundations of Europe. But no one was interested in his death. Napoleon dazzled the world, but could not earn its love, because he could not show it a perfect character. Victoria never tried for great things, but her simple, beautiful life and her deeds of charity will be themes for poets and scholars when her vast empire shall be no more.—From Success.

The Flour Trust Formed.

The Eastern Milling and Export company, which was incorporated last week at Trenton, N. J., with a capital of $4,000,000, has secured options on a long list of the flouring mills in this state. Among the number is the Flemington mill in Clinton county. The company has been formed to control the supply of flour in this section of the country.

An Unpopular Prediction.

Trout fishermen will be pleased (?) with Rev. Hicks' predictions for the 15th of April. He says, "The crisis of this period will fall on or next to the 15th, about which date look for vicious electrical storms, attended by hail, rain and dangerous winds."

—Hon. Patrick R. Cotter, member of the House of Representative from McKean county, died Saturday evening from uraemic poisoning at the Grand Hotel in Harrisburg after an illness of only a few days. The deceased was a veteran of the civil war and was aged 57 years. He was elected as a Democratic fusion member from McKean county at last fall's election.

ONLY ONE?

They have a Unique Record in Bellefonte as well as Elsewhere.

The reader can only find one remedy that first gives local proof of its merits and second demonstrates beyond doubt that when it cures the work is permanent. Read this:

Mr. Geo. Gross of Water street, says: "In the summer of 1896 I used Doan's Kidney Pills for backache, procuring them from the Bush block drug store. Accompanying the pains in my back was an annoyance from the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me after I had been troubled for years. I thought I was going to have backache again, but two years afterwards I went fishing, got soaked through and this ended in affecting my back, I again resorted to my old cure, Doan's Kidney Pills and they did me good immediately, although in the meantime I had taken other remedies but without obtaining relief. I can as conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills now as I did formerly for backache or kidney trouble."

THE defeat of the Republican candidate for mayor of Chicago was accomplished when ex-Governor Altgeld announced his intention to support the Republican nominee. The support of Altgeld would kill anything. Carter Harrison's success was due to Anarchist Altgeld's opposition. In this he played in great luck.

Easter Services at St. John's Lutheran Church.

The services in the Lutheran church were impressive and of unusual interest on Easter. The pastor, Dr. H. C. Holloway, received 20 new members into his congregation. Large numbers partook of the Holy Communion both morning and evening. The individual communion cup was used for the first time.

The music was exceptionally fine. Mr. Eugene Wentzel sang "The Resurrection" with fine effect, Miss Edith B. Wertz sustained her part ably at the organ. The choir sang admirably. The church was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies, plants and cut roses.

In the evening the church and Sunday school rooms were again crowded, and the Easter service rendered by the Sunday school, delighted all. Miss Lulu Stover had her little ones well trained. The music was of the highest order.

The offerings for benevolence were liberal during the day, and all present pronounced the whole day a glorious feast of good things. St. John's Lutheran church is certainly growing.

Delightful Music Service Sunday Evening.

The Presbyterian Sabbath school had prepared an exceptionally pretty Easter service of song and recitations for Easter Sunday, but postponed it out of consideration for the Methodist services until Sunday evening, April 14. The music has been pronounced to be the prettiest ever introduced in Bellefonte by a Sabbath school. The service will be held in the Presbyterian church at 7 o'clock. A choir of 25 voices and an orchestra of 10 pieces will lead the singing. The overture by the orchestra will be played at 7:05, so let everyone be prompt.

All lovers of captivating music are hereby extended a cordial invitation to attend this service. Those who miss it will regret it. There will be no addresses.

IT is claimed for the United States that it leads all other nations in the matter of fruit growing. Strawberries were valued at $80,000,000 last year and grapes at $100,000,000. The value of the product of the political plum tree has not been estimated, but judging from the richness of its crop in Pennsylvania we fancy the harvest throughout the country would reach an enormous figure.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, April 8th, 1901.

Gov. Allen, of Porto Rico, will not resign. That was settled at a white House conference, a few hours after his arrival in Washington. He has done so well in Porto Rico, that President McKinley asked him to withhold his resignation for a time, and he consented to do so, and after a visit to his old home, in Massachusetts, he will return to the island. Speaking of the island, Gov. Allen said: "Affairs are moving smoothly in Porto Rico. The condition of the island is much improved and in my opinion is now better than it ever was before. A civil government has been established in all its branches and is operating smoothly. The island has not cost the people of the U. S. a cent, and will soon be raising its own revenue by internal taxation. The revenues of the island, since the passage of the Foraker act by the U. S. Congress, have been produced by the customs duties levied by that act. Next March the law will expire, and the money will come from modes of taxation to be prescribed by the local legislature. By that time the island will be ready to accept the abolishment of the custom's duties and free trade between the U. S. and Porto Rico will probably follow."

Hon. Philander C. Knox, the new Attorney General, who will at once assume his duties, will be the eighth Pennsylvanian to hold that port folio in the cabinet. Mr. Knox and President McKinley are old friends. In fact, it was on the advice of Mr. McKinley that Mr. Knox became a lawyer. His standing at home is plainly told by his being president of the famous Duquesne Club, of Pittsburg, and by his having served a term as president of the Penn'a. Bar Association. Mr. Knox is in the prime of life. He will celebrate his 48th birthday next month. His fitness to be Attorney General is not questioned by anyone. The only thing said against him is what would be said against most of the successful lawyers of the country, under similar circumstances, that he has had rich corporations for clients, which shows the wisdom of the President's choice, as rich corporations employ only the best lawyers.

Gen. MacArthur continues to send good news from the Philippines. The surrender of the armed Filipinos is practically a continuous performance, and no fighting at all is going on. This is so gratifying to President McKinley that he has decided that the total strength of the regular army shall only be enlisted up to three-quarters of the one hundred thousand men authorized by Congress, unless later advices from Gen. MacArthur shall make it plain that a larger number will be necessary. It can be stated on the highest authority that Aguinaldo will not be allowed to come to the U. S. as long as he is considered a prisoner, and how long he will be considered a prisoner will depend upon how he conducts himself, and upon how those who have been his followers conduct themselves. In other words, he and the other Filipinos who have been in revolt against the U. S., must live up to the oath of allegiance they have taken to the U. S., before they are entirely freed from surveillance. Now that things are getting in a satisfactory condition in the islands, this government is fully determined that neither Aguinaldo or any one shall be given an opportunity to undo the good work that has been done. Among the numerous suggestions, some humorous and some serious, made to the War department, as to the disposition of Aguinaldo, is the following, from a prominent official: "Have his name changed by law to George Washington Aguinaldo, then set aside 50 square miles of unoccupied government land as a territory, and make G. W. Aguinaldo its governor, on condition that ex-Gov. Boutwell, Edward Atkinson, Erving Winslow and other anti-imperialist leaders shall take up quarter sections there. Then leave them alone to work out their ideas of government, and the rest of the American people will find out how the thing ought to be done."

Everything is in readiness for the unveiling of the handsome equestrian statue of Gen. John A. Logan, one of the most elaborate as well as most artistic in Washington, which will take place tomorrow. The ceremonies connected with the unveiling include the escorting of President McKinley and his Cabinet from the White House to Iowa circle, where the statue is, by U. S. soldiers and marines, under command of Brigadier Gen. Guenther, a major general's salute of 15 guns, by U. S. artillery, addresses by Gen. G. M. Dodge, Rev. Dr. F. M. Bristol, Franklin Simmons, the artist who made the statue, and President McKinley, and a set oration by Senator Depew. Master George Tucker, son of Maj. Tucker, U. S. A. and grandson of Gen. Logan, will unveil the statue.

MAINE contributed more soldiers to the Union army during the Civil war than Kansas, but the Maine Legislature this year failed to take action on a bill exempting old soldiers of more than sixty-five years of age from the payment of a poll-tax, while the Kansas State Senate has passed a bill providing that all soldiers who served in the Civil war shall have preference in all appointments by the state and city officers

Mrs. Bridget Sharp.

Mrs. Bridget Sharp died at her home, in Tyrone at 11.10 o'clock Monday morning. She had been in poor health for several years, having long been a sufferer from asthma. About three weeks ago she became seriously ill, pneumonia being the cause of death. She was aged 54 years, 3 months and 5 days.

Born at Howard, the deceased spent her youth there and at Bellefonte, and it was at this place that she was united in marriage to William Sharp. They lived at Howard, Bellefonte and McKeesport; then at Petersburg until about ten years ago, when the family became residents of Grazierville. A little more than a year ago they removed to Tyrone residing there since. Mr. Sharp is employed as a knobbler at the Tyrone Iron works.

Surviving are her husband, four sons and two daughters. Her aged mother, Mrs. Katharine Flack, now resides at Bellefonte, as do the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Mary Hull, Mrs. Harland Saylor, Miss Katharine Flack; David, William and Harry Flack. One sister Mrs. George Poorman, resides at Houtzdale. The deceased was a kind and devoted wife and mother, one whose summons beyond leaves the home stricken with sorrow. She was a devout member of the Catholic church.

The funeral services were held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Matthew's church, at Tyrone Rev. T. W. Rosensteel officiating in the requiem mass. Interment at Oak Grove cemetery.

MOTTOES OF STATES.

HOW MANY OF THEM, WITH THEIR MEANINGS, DO YOU KNOW?

The Great Seal of the United States Was Designed by an Englishman. Who Also Suggested the Motto Adopted, "E Pluribus Unum."

If you desire to have fun with a learned acquaintance, ask him simple questions about his country, its history, financial condition, political divisions, geographical lines, climatology, topography, etc. Questions that any schoolboy can answer Dr. Knowall will stumble clumsily over, often getting a bad fall. There is one question that I have never heard any one answer—namely, "What are the mottoes of the several states of the Union and their meaning?" A clever man may name that of his own state and guess at those of three or four of the more important sister states, but he is unlikely to know the meanings of any that are in the original Latin. Try some able professor in a crowd and see him flounder.

Ask the professor if he knows that the great seal of the United States was designed by an Englishman, Sir John Prestwich, who also suggested the motto, "E Pluribus Unum?" Our ablest men had failed to propose anything acceptable, Franklin, Jefferson, Adams, Lovell, Scott, Houston and others wasting nearly four years on the task. Franklin proposed Moses dividing the Red sea with this motto, "Rebellion to Tyrants Is Obedience to God;" Adams proposed the choice of Hercules and Jefferson the children of Israel in the wilderness. Doesn't it seem funny? Some of the suggested mottoes were "Bello vel Pace" (For War or Peace), "Semper" (Forever), "Deo Favente" (With God's Favor), "Virtus Sola Invicta" (Virtue Alone Invincible), etc. After six years the Englishman's device was adopted, and it yet remains the arms of the United States.

If the professor is familiar with the obverse of the great seal, ask him what he has to say of the reverse, and the chances are 100 to 1 that he cannot recollect the unfinished pyramid, the eye in the triangle, the glory proper, the motto over the eye, "Annuit Coeptis" (God Has Favored the Undertaking), and that under all, "Novus Ordo Seculorum" (A New Series of Ages). The obverse of the great seal, with its splendid eagle, the bundle of arrows, the olive branch, the 13 stripes, the 13 stars, the glory breaking from the clouds and the "E Pluribus Unum," is magnificently American, but the pyramid, the desert, the forbidding Egyptian sky and the eye in the triangle on the reverse are simply barbarous.

The great seal of the Confederacy by a strange arbitrament of fate was never used. It was made in England and reached Richmond about the time of its evacuation by the armies of the lost cause and the Confederate government. Its motto was "Deo Vindice" (God Maintains). The seal is a handsome silver die about three inches in diameter, bearing an equestrian portrait of Washington (after the statue in Richmond), surrounded with a wreath composed of cotton, tobacco sugar cane, corn, wheat and rice—the principal products of the Confederate states. It cost in England about $600, with press, wafers, seal papers, wax, silk cords, etc. It was presented to the state of South Carolina about 1887 and is kept in the office of the secretary of state.

Ask the professor if he remembers that Minnesota, founded by Americans, is the only state in the Union that has a French motto. The one originally selected and ordered engraved was Latin, but the die was spoiled and the French substitute was adopted, "L'Etoile du Nord" (The Star of the North). Does the professor recall that Montana is the only state with a Spanish motto? Strange that fur traders should have adopted "Oro y Plata" (Gold and Silver). If you say that one state has a Greek motto, he probably will do some pretty hard thinking before answering that it is California. "Eureka" is believed to be Greek for "I have found." The only Italian motto belongs to Maryland, and it originally belonged to the Calvert family, "Fatti Maschi, Parole Femine" (Deeds Are Males, Words Females). To be a trifle plainer, "Manly Deeds, Womanly Words." Ask the professor if he knows that Washington is the only state with an Indian motto. "Al-Ki" is pure Chinook for by and by, in the future or hereafter.—Exchange.

Cured.

"No," said the man in the mackintosh, "my wife doesn't give away any of my old clothes or sell them to the ragman any more. I cured that habit effectually once."

"How was that?" they asked him.

"When I found that she had disposed of a coat I hadn't worn for several weeks, I told her there was a letter in it she had given me to mail the last time I had it on. And that was no lie either," he added with deep satisfaction.—Chicago Tribune.

Evidence to the Contrary.

"I told Uncle Simon that he was getting too old and feeble to attend to business."

"Did he take it kindly?"

CHILD LOVE.

Two little arms were clinging,
And a little head was pressed
(The rosy face all hidden)
Closely against my breast.

"What is it, dear?" I questioned,
Caressing the golden head,
Whispering sweetly and shyly,
"I love you!" the darling said.

What had I given to win it—
This offering pure and sweet?
A story told in the twilight,
A merry word when we meet?

Oh, child love, so gladly offered,
So easily won, I pray
Through life I may find this treasure
Mine, as it is today!

There are trials to meet and vanquish
And sorrows crowned with the years,
And lips curve less to smiling,
And eyes fill oft with tears,

But the heavy heart grows lighter,
Half of its grief beguiled,
When love, with a heaven born impulse,
Speaks from the lips of a child!

COUNTERFEIT ART.

Americans Are Easily Swindled on Pictures by "Old Masters."

There will doubtless never come a time in the history of the art world when the discovery of "old masters" will cease, certainly not as long as American picture buyers possess the almighty dollar and are willing to be swindled.

Nearly every week in New York for the last year there have been auction sales of "rare old masters." Some of them are rare, indeed; one that was shown at the Macbeth gallery and also in Detroit some time ago, supposed to be a study of an old man by Rubens, the left hand of which was nearly twice the size of its mate, and the term "rare" did certainly apply very aptly to the flesh tints.

Do people ever stop to think how many of these "old masters" there are in existence? Any one may have an "old master" these days who has the "price to pay the dealer to find one or go abroad and get one 'made.'" There are many artists in Paris and elsewhere who make a good living, or what they consider a good living, copying "old masters" in the various galleries to sell to dealers for little or nothing, and they in turn bring them to America and clear hundreds by selling them to some moneyed art lover who in some cases is doubtless in the possession of more money than judgment in art matters.

One well known New York art collector some time ago paid a large sum for a certain painting that an enterprising dealer had "discovered" and who represented it to him as very rare and the only one in existence. The same gentleman while on a recent tour through Spain was shown the original painting upon the walls of a certain monastery. The sequel of the story does not say what he did with the dealer. If there be a hereafter for these discoverers of "old masters," their consciences, which seem very elastic, will have to do a deal of rubbering to get back to the required shape to fit them for their celestial abiding places or to meet the frowns of the shades of departed masters themselves.—Detroit News Tribune.

A Boasting Epitaph.

The following epitaph is to be found in Dalkeith churchyard, over the grave of Margaret Scott:

Stop, passenger, until my life you read.
The living may get knowledge by the dead.
Five times five years I lived a maiden's life;
Ten times five years I lived a widow chaste.
Now, weary of this mortal life, I rest.
Between my cradle and my grave have been
Eight mighty kings of Scotland and a queen.
Four times five years the commonwealth I saw;
Ten times the subjects rose against the law.
Twice did I see old prelacy pulled down,
And twice the cloak was humbled by the gown.
An end of Stewart's race I saw; nay, more—
My native country sold for English ore.
Such desolations in my life have been;
I have an end of all perfection seen.

This lady was born in 1613 and lived to the age of 125 and, therefore, must have lived through the following list of rulers: James I, Charles I, the commonwealth of Oliver Cromwell as protector, Charles II, James II, William III and Mary, Anne, George I and George II.—London Chronicle.

Methods of Curing Jungle Fever.

I got over my attack, but it was a marvel that I did. One morning my doctor bled me till there was scarcely a drop of blood left in my body. He then gave me 40 grains of calomel, and in the evening, as the fever was still raging, he ordered me to be taken out to the yard of my quarters, laid on a bare rattan couch and buckets of cold water thrown over me for about 20 minutes! I was then put back to bed and fortunately fell asleep for several hours. After some weeks on the sick list, I was able to return to my post at Kornegalle.—"Fifty Years In Ceylon."

Disappointed the Farmer.

"That city man that was visiting me is an overrated cuss," remarked the farmer.

"How so?"

"Oh, the papers all said he was a great hand at watering stock, but I found he couldn't work the pump five minutes without laming his arm."—Chicago Post.

Ah!

He—Cissie, I've heard it said that a kiss without a mustache is like an egg without salt. Is that so?

She—Well, really, I don't know. I can't tell, for, you see, I've never—

He—Ah, now!

She—Never eaten an egg without salt.—Glasgow Times.

In the fourteenth century the slaughter of women and children after a town or castle had been taken by storm was one of the most common occurrences of war.

GRANDMAS OF TODAY

THEY KEEP IN THE RACE WITH THE YOUNG PEOPLE TO THE END.

The Old Fashioned Grandmother, the One Who Placidly Sat in the Chimney Corner Darning Stockings, Is a Thing of the Past.

I was bemoaning the fact that I had never known my grandmothers. One died before I was born and the other when I was a few months old. I thought it would be so comforting to have a grandmother because they always regarded their grandchildren as being incapable of doing wrong. At least they were sure to multiply one's virtues and minimize faults. Their chief object in life, as I picture them, was to minister to their descendants' comfort, to make the crooked places straight. The grandmother of my fancy would keep my clothes in repair, darn the stockings, knit plenty of washrags and silk mittens, surprise me with my favorite dishes, laugh at my jokes and generally submerge her life in the affairs of mine. What was I going to do in return for all this unselfish devotion? I would be her granddaughter. That, according to the old traditions, was quite enough compensation.

I was holding forth, exploiting my views and desires on the grandmother question in the presence of one of those people who delight to take a person down and make him feel cheap, especially if they imagine one is posing as younger than the family Bible records. This individual spoke up and said: "Why, if your grandmothers were living they would be so aged that they would be mummified. Instead of darning your stockings, knitting your mittens, they would be blind, deaf and imbecile. You would have to tend them with greater slavishness than a mother a newborn babe, and without the sweet recompense in the latter case. When people become imbecile with age, they grow repulsive, and the prolonging of this state is dreadful, while each day the unfolding of a budding life is filled with mysterious delights."

Of course I did not want a grandmother that was deaf, blind and imbecile. I thought I would drop the subject, as it appeared to be getting personal. But my companion continued: "Besides, could it be possible in the order of things for you to have a vigorous, industrious, capable grandmother, she would not be sitting at the chimney corner darning your stockings. She would be out attending to her lodge or club business, visiting the millinery openings, ordering a fashionable gown, playing cards or attending a high tea. The old fashioned grandmother is as much a thing of the past as the spinning wheel, the canalboat, stagecoach, making candles and family rendered soap."

I protested that I did not believe my grandmothers would be of the modern pattern. I had heard my mother tell often of how completely her mother lost her taste for society and outside affairs after she had grandchildren. She had raised a large family, but these reproductions were just as much a delight as had been the originals. She infinitely preferred their society to that of grown people. Their prattle, school experiences, little ambitions, filled her life completely. She was constantly planning surprises for them by making animal cakes, individual pies, candy, aprons, hoods, doll clothes.

"Yes, but if she lived now she would be different. The air she would breathe is filled with assertive germs which declare that every woman owes it to herself to have a career and stand at the helm and steer it to the very end. She must not allow her life to be submerged in that of her own children, as they make their appearance rather unwelcome frequently, but must have outside missions. As soon as her offspring is married off, which is accomplished with as great dispatch as diplomacy can secure, then she is free to carry out pet schemes and natural desires untrammeled."

"Perhaps you are right," I replied. Such a grandmother as this would be no comfort to me as a grandmother, while she might be a most helpful friend, and I could be proud of her position in the literary, artistic or philanthropic world as her tastes might dictate her pursuit.

A grandmother of my acquaintance said to me not long ago: "It would be a great trial to me to have my grandchildren or any children in the house with me now. I could not adapt myself to their demands and interruptions. I have raised my family and now want my time for individual pursuits." This woman has especial talents and necessities for using them, and in her case these feelings may not seem unnatural. But this is much the sentiment that possesses the grandmothers of the age who have no special missions or avocations outside the domestic circle. If they have means, they buy handsome gifts for their grandchildren and wish them to have all the advantages possible that do not represent personal self sacrifice or curtailment of freedom of action.

Women are imbued with the spirit of the age, which demands that there shall be no old ladies with caps and shawls who stay at home and guard the fireside, but that they must keep in the race with the young people to the very end.—Susan W. Ball in Terre Haute Gazette.

TRICKS IN THE SILK TRADE.

How Shoppers Are Fooled—Tests Which Show the Pure Material.

Pure silk, when it has been through all the processes necessary to bring out all its good qualities, is worth its weight in silver, said an expert the other day. Therefore the women who expect to buy pure silk at little more than the price of cotton must expect to be fooled, and there are lots of ways by which the manufacturer gets even with them.

They make stuff that is called silk and passes for it with credulous persons who don't know any better out of nearly any old thing now. One favorite imitation silk is made of cellulose treated with chemicals. It isn't a good material to get on fire in. Then there are south sea island cottons and some mercerized cotton which after treatment look something like silk, though of course they wear very differently, and their silken appearance soon vanishes.

But it is in adulterating goods which really have some silk in them that the greatest skill is exercised to deceive the buyer. To obtain the required rustle and body rough floss is often used for the woof of the material. This soon causes it to wear shiny.

Another trick is to increase the weight and apparent solidity of a flimsy silk material by using metallic salts in the dye vats. Pressing with some kinds of silk increases the weight also, but at the sacrifice of strength. Cheap, crackly, stiff silk which has heavy cords is good silk to avoid. It won't wear.

There are several tests which reveal readily the purity of a piece of silk. The microscope of course will show it at once, even to an unpracticed eye. Pure silk has the appearance of fine, smooth tubes. Another good test is by burning. Pure silk burns slowly, with a slight odor. Cotton flares up quickly and would throw off a decidedly disagreeable smell.

Then the tongue will readily reveal the presence of metallic salts. There is no mistaking their taste. But all these may be disregarded, said the expert, when silk is offered for the price of cotton. You need not bother to test that stuff.—New York Sun.

LINCOLN ADOPTED IT.

His Famous Phrase, "Of the People," Originated by Theodore Parker.

William H. Herndon, Lincoln's law partner, knew Theodore Parker well and had much correspondence with him, and after the Lincoln-Douglas debate he came on to Boston and saw Parker and other antislavery men with an eye to Lincoln's political prospects. Going back to Springfield, he took with him some of Parker's newer sermons and addresses. "One of them," he says in his "Abraham Lincoln," "was a lecture on 'The Effect of Slavery on the American People,' which was delivered in the Music hall, Boston, and which I gave to Lincoln, who read and returned it. He liked especially the following expression, which he marked with a pencil and which he in substance afterward used in his Gettysburg address: 'Democracy is direct self government, over all the people, by all the people, for all the people.'" The address referred to (Parker's last great antislavery address) was delivered July 4, 1858.

Here, I submit, was the probable origin of Lincoln's phrase. In one variant or another it was a great favorite with Parker, often taking the exact form that Lincoln gave it, with his sure intuition of the best where there was any choice of words. In a speech delivered by Parker in 1850 we find it imbedded in a passage which might have been the inspiration of Seward's famous "irrepressible conflict" or Lincoln's "house divided against itself," a view to which Parker continually recurred. In two other speeches it stands "government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people." Its earliest appearance that I have discovered in his writings is in a letter to Rev. Samuel J. May in 1848, where it is simply "government of all, by all, for all."—Review of Reviews.

Antiquity of Man.

From a review in Science of De Mortillet's great work on prehistoric times the following is condensed. Twelve chapters are devoted to the question of tertiary man. It is concluded that while man did not exist during this period, precursors of man more intelligent than any of the living anthropoids did exist.

Pithecanthropus erectus is considered as the immediate precursor of man. The Calaveras skull is rejected. The paleolithic period is considered as corresponding to the early quarternary, and 222,000 years is assigned as the length of this period. Add to this number 10,000 years for the protohistoric and neolithic periods and 6,000 years more for the historic period, and we have 238,000 years, which is, according to the authors, a moderate estimate of man's antiquity.

THE 25 ct. FAMILY DOCTOR.

CEDAR SPRINGS, MICH.

Mrs. Isaac Dunham, a well-known lady of that place, writes: "I cannot praise Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills too much. They did for me what doctors and other medicines could not do. I was troubled with severe disorders of the kidneys and enlargement of the liver. My family doctor treated me the whole of last winter, but did not help me very much, so I gave him up and began using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The result was simply wonderful. I am now strong and healthy again, thanks to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

EATON RAPIDS, MICH.

Mrs. Rose Chaffee, a business woman of Eaton Rapids, writes: "For a long time my system was in a terribly weakened state. Biliousness, severe indigestion and kidney troubles made me so miserable that I was hardly able to work. A friend told me of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I found them just as represented. They restored my health to me, and I think they are a wonderful medicine."

The marked success of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills with Backache, Kidney Trouble, Constipation, Headache and Stomach Weakness make them a family requisite. 25 cts. a box.

Unchristian Conduct.

The Duke Street Methodist Episcopal congregation of York are in open revolt over the removal of Rev. Mr. Womer, their former pastor. The church people unanimously and urgently petitioned Bishop Foss to return Mr. Womer to Duke street and because their request was refused they will withhold further contributions to the Bishop's missionary and other conference funds and will also reduce the pastor's salary from $1,000 to $500 per year. Rev. O. C. Heck is the newly appointed pastor for the Duke Street church and upon him will be visited the wrath of the church members.

How Some Women Proposed.

The year 1900 has had the peculiarity that, though devisible by four, it has not been a leap year. The ladies may, therefore, find the following article from an exchange all the more timely. A number of curious instances are given of the way in which young women proposed marriage to their favorite men.

Dr. Thomas Dawson, celebrated in the Eighteenth Century as a physician, found one day an admiring patient sittling alone with the family Bible before her. The physician read the words to which her finger pointed, Nathan's words to David, "Thou art the man." He took the hint and married her.

A girl who presided over a refreshment stall at a large railway station in England was good-looking, but had red hair. A man waiting for a train said to her, "can you oblige me with a match?" She answered, "Yes, if you do not object to a red-headed one." They are now married and happy.

A spinster of limited charms called upon Robt. Leighton, Bishop of Dumblane, and informed him that it had been revealed to her from Heaven that he was to become her husband. His Reverence was startled, but did not lose his wits. He told the lady that such an intimation was not to be despised, and that he would give his best attention to it if the revelation came to him as well as to her.

A shy man said to the lady of his choice, "I wish we were on such terms that you wouldn't mind calling me by my first name." "Oh," she answered, "your second name is good enough for me."

Miss Kenrick, the beautiful English heiress, celebrated in the ballad of "The Berkshire Lady's Garland" sent Benjamin Child, the handsome young attorney, with whom she had fallen in love, an anonymous letter demanding satisfaction for injuries received. After vainly trying to guess who his challenger might be and how he had offended, Child betook himself, provided with a second, to the place of meeting. There he saw no fierce gallant, only a masked woman, who, flashing a rapier, said:

"It is I that did invite you.
You shall wed me or I'll fight you,
Underneath those spreading trees,
Therefore choose from which you please."

Taken back by such a "stand and deliver," Child asked to see his challenger's face before deciding, but the woman refused to unmask until the knot was tied. He decided to surrender; so he and the lady went to church and were married. The hero of the romance found that his adventure brought him "beauty, honor, riches." He took place among the gentry of the county, and was high sheriff of Berkshire in 1714.

A $4,000 Tree.

A mammoth black walnut tree on the farm of E. P. Gaus, in Williams county, Ohio, has been sold for $4,000. Several lumber dealers have examined chips from this tree, and all have declared it to be the finest specimen of that kind of wood they ever saw. The tree was 8 feet in diameter, 40 feet above the stump and extended 73 feet from the butt to the first limb.

May Bar the Women.

Something of a furore is likely to follow the announcement from Rome that women in the future will not be allowed to sing in the choirs of Roman Catholic churches of the United States. It is reported that the Congregation of Rites, now meeting in Rome, is about to deliver a decree to this purpose.

OVERPOWERED WATCHMAN

Then Used Fifteen Charges of Explosives to Open Bank vault.

PEOPLE SLEPT, THIEVES DIDN'T

Four Men Entered the Citizens' Bank at Chardon, Ohio, After Brutally Beating the Watchman, and Got $125.

THEN ESCAPED ON A HAND CAR

CHARDON, O., April 5.—The Citizens' bank was robbed of $125 at an early hour yesterday morning. After exploding fifteen charges of dynamite the safe broke and the men made their escape.

At 1.30 o'clock yesterday morning Night Watchman Norman Pomeroy was standing in front of the bank when he saw two strangers approaching. When close enough they sprang upon him simultaneously and bore him to the ground. Two more soon came to their assistance. Pomeroy struggled desperately, getting to his feet again, only to go down under the weight of numbers. He thrashed the four about on the sidewalk, and then out into the muddy street.

Finally he got his right arm free and drew his revolver. At the discharge one of his assailants sprang back with a yell of rage, his left arm hanging limp as though broken. The next moment Pomeroy lost consciousness from the effects of a violent blow on the head. When he recovered he found himself in the bank building, bound hand and foot, and a gag in his mouth. He lay there a witness to all the operations. At each explosion the robbers retired to places of safety. Pomeroy lay in an exposed place, and no attention was paid to him except that the man with the broken arm occasionally gave him a kick in the ribs as he passed.

The robbers were a long time getting into the vault. They gathered up the loose coins lying about and then went at the strong box. They exploded several charges, but could not force it. Through it all the people of the town slept. The gang finally escaped on a hand-car towards Painesville, leaving Pomeroy bound and gagged on the floor.

The robbers only succeeded in gaining entrance to one compartment of the big safe. In another part, which was not reached, it is said nearly $50,000 was stored.

Early yesterday two men were arrested at Willoughby upon the charge of being members of the gang which robbed the Chardon bank.

After an investigation yesterday Cashier C. L. Smith, of the bank, made this statement concerning the booty secured by the cracksmen:

"The robbers got $125 in gold, $20,000 in certificates held against the bank by individuals, and $25,000 or $30,000 worth of mortgages and other securities belonging to individuals. None of the paper taken is negotiable. There was $30,000 in currency in an inner vault which they did not get. The books and records of the bank were not disturbed."

A posse of citizens is scouring the surrounding country for the robbers. It is believed that some coins found in possession of the two men arrested at Willoughby are a part of those taken from the bank. The men also had several sticks of dynamite in their pockets.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Bids for Double Tracking.

At Philadelphia yesterday Chief Engineer Brown, of the Pennsylvania railroad, received bids for the grading and masonry in connection with the proposed double tracking of the Philadelphia and Erie railroad, between Lock Haven and Keating. The work will be divided into six sections, as follows: Sec. 1—From the west of Lock Haven to the west end of Queen's Run bridge, three miles; section 2—West end of Queen's Run bridge to east end of Ferney's siding, about six miles; section 3—West end of Ferney's siding to the east end of Whetham siding, four and one-half miles; section 4—West end of Whetham siding to east end of Hyner's siding to east end of double track at North Bend, four and one-half miles; section 6—Renovo to Keating, ten miles. Contractors before submitting bids were required to make a personal inspection of the proposed work.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription Doubles a Mother's Joys and Halves Her Sorrows.

It does this by a pre-natal preparation in which the mother finds herself growing stronger instead of weaker with each month. Instead of nausea and nervousness, there are healthy appetite, quiet nerves, and refreshing sleep. The mind's content keeps pace with the body's comfort. There is no anxiety, no dread of the approaching time of travail. When the birth hour comes it is practically painless, the recovery is rapid, and the mother finds herself abundantly able to nurse her child.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free of charge, and so obtain without cost the advice of a specialist in the diseases peculiar to women. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Annie Blacker, 629 Catherine Street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had four miscarriages, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' I have much better health, and now I have a fine healthy baby. I have recommended your medicines to several of my friends and they have been benefited by them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure dizziness and sick headache.

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

They who never dabble in sin will never drown in it.

Character is the great credential that God gives His children.

Not all reverent men are wise, but every wise man is reverent.

It is a common error to try to plant blossoms instead of seeds.

Make no compromise with sin for sin will make none with you.

The Savior can change even stumbling blocks into stepping stones.

The real infidel is the person who cares nothing for fidelity to Christ.

Only those who hate sin more than they dread suffering can serve God.

It adds nothing to the piety of the parrot that it has learned to pray.

Some Christians break up the Rock of Ages to fling the pieces at one another.

Perhaps the reason the preacher is the better man is that he wears his Sunday clothes all the week.

We are told to win souls, not to whip them.

Pulling both ways makes progress neither.

He Kept His Leg.

Twelve years ago J. W. Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., scratched his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, "but," he writes, "I used one bottle of Electric Bitters and 1 1-2 boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and my leg was sound and well as ever." For eruptions, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, sores and all blood disorders Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them. F. Potts Green, druggist, will guarantee satisfaction or refund money. Only 50 cents.

Girl Causes a Strike.

New York, April 5.—One small, pretty 16-year-old girl has caused a strike that may result in the shutting down of a great factory, if the difficulty is not adjusted.

The girl is Maggie Stamm, and the factory is that of the Crescent Watch Case Company, at Roseville, N. J. The fifty or more hands employed in polishing gold watch cases notified Superintendent Bencke that unless Maggie was discharged they would quit.

"Well, quit, then," said the superintendent, and they did.

Maggie Stamm is not a member of the union, nor can she join, because the union holds that she has not worked long enough at the trade to qualify her as a competent hand, and on this is based the request for her discharge, and the demand that a general strike be declared if the request is not complied with.

A Raging, Roaring Flood

Washed down a telegraph line which Chas. C. Ellis, of Lisbon, Ia., had to repair. "Standing waist deep in icy water," he writes, "gave me a terrible cold and cough. It grew worse daily. Finally the best doctors in Oakland, Neb., Sioux City and Omaha said I had Consumption and could not live. Then I began using Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles." Positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and all throat and lung troubles by F. Potts Green, druggist. Price 50c.

The Largest County.

A census bulletin on the area in square miles of the various states, showed that Lycoming is the largest county in Pennsylvania, the area in miles being 1,240 Tioga is second with 1,180 and Clearfield third with 1,141, while Bradford follows closely with 1,140. Philadelphia is the smallest county with 130 square miles, and Montour comes next with 142.

DOGS ON THE STAGE.

Leaping For the Villain's Neck—A Very Sensitive Animal.

Four legged animals in drama are of course a very common sight today. Although they are often of far more importance than the mere super, they have an affinity to that class, for theirs is no speaking part, unless one counts the bark of a dog as such.

A little time ago the writer met an actor who was taking the part of a villain in a play wherein a big mastiff seizes him at the back of far more neck just as he (the villain) was about to murder the heroine. "Nasty part, that of yours. How do you manage to escape nightly being bitten by that big brute of a dog?" "Not a nice part, it is true," he answered, "but the dog is well trained. He is kept without food for a few hours before the show. A piece of cooked liver is tied to my neck. He is held in the wings till the cue comes, then he rushes on to me for his supper, and the curtain goes down on a very effective tableau. I don't object to the dog. It's the liver."

The mention of stage dogs brings to mind an amusing incident that occurred in a well known theatrical agent's office last summer. In came a rough looking little man wearing a check suit that once used to speak out for itself, but was now silenced by the heavy hand of time. The man was followed by a dog of attractive appearance. The visitor said he did a "tramp act," assisted by the animal. Then they gave an exhibition of themselves and were certainly above the average. "What are your terms?" the agent queried. "Ten pounds a week." "I'll give you two." The imitation tramp—but he was not far from the real thing—looked with a sad, reproachful eye at the agent and silently backed out of the office, the dog meekly following. However, within a few seconds the man returned, quickly closing the door to exclude his partner, who clamored to get in. "I'll take it," he said in a hurried whisper. "Where's the contract? I'm real broke, so it's a clear case of push; but, for heaven's sake, don't mention the price where the dog can hear you."—Chambers' Journal.

MOST PEOPLE LOPSIDED.

Differences Between the Legs, Eyes and Ears of Men and Women.

The two sides of a person's face are never alike. The eyes are out of line in two cases out of five, and one eye is stronger than the other in seven persons out of ten. The right ear is also, as a rule, higher than the left.

Only one person in 15 has perfect eyes, the largest percentage of defects prevailing among fair haired people. Short sight is more common in town than among country folk, and of all people the Germans have the largest proportion of shortsighted persons.

The crystalline lens of the eye is the one portion of the human body which continues to increase with the attainment of maturity.

The smallest interval of sound can be better distinguished with one ear than with both. The nails of two fingers never grow with the same rapidity, that of the middle finger growing the fastest, while that of the thumb grows the slowest.

In 54 cases out of 100 the left leg is shorter than the right. The bones of an average human male skeleton weigh 20 pounds, those of a woman are six pounds lighter.

That unruly member, the tongue of a woman, is also smaller than that of a man, given a man and a woman of equal size and weight. It may be appalling to reflect, but it is nevertheless true, that the muscles of the human jaw exert a force of over 500 pounds.

The symmetry which is the sole intelligible ground for our idea of beauty, the proportion between the upper and lower half of the human body, exists in nearly all males, but is never found in the female. American limbs are more symmetrical than those of any other people. The rocking chair, according to an English scientist, is responsible for the exercise which increases the beauty of the lower limbs. The push which the toes give to keep the chair in motion, repeated and repeated, makes the instep high, the calf round and full, and it makes the ankle delicate and slender.—Exchange.

When Irving Forgot Himself.

Ben Webster, an English actor, told a good story of how he held his own when Sir Henry Irving happened to be absentminded. In the "Lyons Mail" there is a touching scene between Lesurques (played by Irving) and his daughter Julie, of which Didier (Mr. Ben Webster) is a perfectly silent witness.

One night Sir Henry, instead of making his long speech, appealed in trembling tones to Mr. Webster: "Speak to her, Didier; speak to her!" Didier was dumfounded. There was an awful pause. Irving, quite unconscious of his own mistake, frowned wrathfully at the young actor, but Mr. Webster, equal to the occasion, gave way to a burst of tears and exclaimed, "I cannot; you know I cannot speak!" and turned his back on the audience.

Then Sir Henry picked up his lines with a start, and it was observed that Didier's shoulders shook with emotion!—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Nerve Food

If you have neuralgia, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil will feed the nerve that is crying for food—it is hungry—and set your whole body going again, in a way to satisfy nerve and brain from your usual food.

That is cure.

If you are nervous and irritable, you may only need more fat to cushion your nerves—you are probably thin—and Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil will give you the fat, to begin with.

Cure, so far as it goes. Full cure is getting the fat, you need from usual food, and Scott's Emulsion will help you to that.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

Mrs. Reuben Grimm.

The illness of Mrs. Reuben Grimm, of Rebersburg, dates back about 5 weeks, when she became afflicted with dropsy and heart trouble. Medical attention could bring no relief, and death ended her sufferings Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Grimm, nee Shaffer, was born in Miles twp., July 3, 1835, and was baptized in infancy by Rev. Fisher. She was confirmed and taken into membership in the Lutheran church Nov. 22, 1851. She continued a consistent member until death. Feb. 22, 1855, she was married to Reuben Grimm. Two children blessed the union, L. S., of Jewell, Kan., and C. L., of Madisonburg. In addition to her sons, she is survived by her husband and the following brothers: Samuel Shaffer, of the Old Fort Hotel; Jonathan Shaffer, of Lock Haven, and Wm. Shaffer, of Zion.

Mrs. Grimm was 65 years and 9 months of age; always lived a true christian life, and her pleasant and sympathetic manner made her a close friend of many acquaintances. Her departure is a sad loss to the entire community.

The funeral services occurred Friday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Harmon. Interment in Lutheran cemetery.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

It is to be hoped that this same question will not come up again next year, but if it does, Judge Love, who certainly knows by this time the sentiment in Liberty township relative to this matter, will dispose of it in a way that will not put the remonstrators to so much trouble and expense. There were many happy countenances in Eagleville last Wednesday when the decision was heard, and also some having a disappointed, disconsolate look on their faces.

SHUGERT—MALIN.

Two Bellefonte Young People United In the Bonds of Holy Wedlock.

A pretty Post-Lenten event was the wedding Tuesday morning of Miss Helen Beaver Malin second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer L. Malin, to Mr. Frank McCoy Shugert, the youngest son of the late cashier J. Dunlop Shugert, of the Centre County bank, which took place at the home of the bride's parents on East Howard street.

The pretty home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers, potted plants etc., and between seventy-five and one hundred guests were in attendance, many being from a distance. It was just 11:30 a. m., when the wedding party entered the west parlor to the music of the wedding march as played by the Bellefonte orchestra under the skillful leadership of Christy Smith. First came Ogden Bailey Malin, the little brother of the bride, and little Lucretia Williams as garland bearers. Then came the maid of honor, Miss Mary Ceader, and lastly the bride leaning on the arm of the groom. They took their places before Rev. William Laurie D. D. LL. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church, who soon pronounced the words that made two hearts to beat as one.

A reception followed the ceremony and the newly married couple were overwhelmed with the congratulations of the assembled friends. After this came a delightful wedding breakfast served in the excellent style for which caterer Joseph Ceader is famous.

The bride was attired in an imported white lace robe and carried a bouquet of brides roses.

Miss Ceader, the maid of honor, wore a costume of imported mull and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was becomingly attired suitable for the occasion.

Many beautiful presents were received by the bride consisting of silverware, chinaware, bric-a-brac, pictures, rugs, linen, vases, sideboard etc.

At 2:15 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Shugert took the train for a honeymoon tour to eastern cities. Among the places they will visit is Washington, D. C., and Old Point Comfort. They expect to be at home to their friends after May 1st., at their own residence the Shugert homestead on West Linn street.

Among the guests from a distance present were Mrs. F. M. Earnest, Mr. and Mrs. G. Warley Schoch, Mifflinburg; Mr. and Mrs. John S. Furst, of Williamsport; Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Hoskins, Mrs. Hannah Hoskins and Mrs. William Burns, West Chester; Misses Jeanette and Hannah Malin, Baltimore, Md.; Rufus W. Parker, Pittsburg; Mrs. P. G. Rangler, Milton; Lee Larimer, Jersey Shore.

The bride is a very beautiful and accomplished young lady and one of Bellefonte's society belles. She is a namesake of Mrs. Beaver, wife of Ex-Governor James A. Beaver.

The groom belongs to one of our oldest and most respected families and can trace his lineage back to John Dunlop, one of the founders of Bellefonte. He is junior partner in the McCoy iron works, chain and wire mill of this place.

Both young people have a large circle of friends who will wish them much happiness and in the words of Rip Van Winkle "May they live long and prosper.

New Uniforms for the Coleville Band.

The Coleville band whose music has delighted the citizens of our town on many occasions will soon appear on our streets resplendent in new uniforms. The boys have had their measures taken and 22 new uniforms have been ordered through Montgomery & Co., from Henderson & Co., the well known merchant tailors of Philadelphia.

The uniforms are described as follows: Coats of maroon color, pantaloons light blue. Trimmings on coat and pants of black braid. Regulation army caps of maroon color. They cost $327.80 or $14.90 a piece. A drum major's uniform was also provided for the drum major Billy Rine. The uniforms will be here about the 21st of April and the boys will don them for the first time when they go to Williamsport to attend the Odd Fellows celebration on the 26th of April.

On the caps will be the letters C. V. B., and on each side of the collar of the coat will be the letters C. B.

The money to purchase these uniforms was raised at their recent successful concert in the Opera house.

Bishop Fowler's Lecture.

We regret we are unable to adequately describe Bishop Fowler's lecture on "Abraham Lincoln" delivered in the Court House Monday night. It was a magnificent intellectual and oratorical achievement. From all sides expressions of highest praise are uttered by those who were fortunate in hearing what we can without fear of contradiction affirm to be the finest and most eloquent lecture delivered in Bellefonte since the days when Henry Ward Beecher charmed a Bellefonte audience. Bishop Fowler is justly deserving of the front rank he has attained in the list of America's orators. He is an intellectual giant, an oratorical wonder and better yet he is one of God's servants who is doing splendid service for his Master's cause,

At this season the housekeeper must look specially after the baking powder.

As she cannot make good cake with bad eggs, no more can she make cake that is light, delicious and dainty with inferior baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable for the preparation of the finest food. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, doughnuts, crusts, etc., which expert bakers say is unobtainable by the use of any other leavening agent.

The "Royal Baker and Pastry Cook"—containing over 800 most practical and valuable cooking receipts—free to every patron. Send postal card with your full address.

There are cheap baking powders, made from alum, but they are exceedingly harmful to health. Their astringent and cauterizing qualities add a dangerous element to food.

Francis S. Rhoads Goes to Missouri to Reside.

Francis S. Rhoads departed Tuesday for Granby, Mo., where he will take charge of the Zenith Zinc works at that place as general manager. These mines are owned by some of our Bellefonte capitalists, who have operated them successfully for the past year, and the venture has proved so profitable that they are putting in modern smelting works of large capacity, which will enable them to rank among the largest zinc mines in the country.

As it is necessary to have a practical man in charge, Mr. Rhoads was persuaded to go and manage the operation, and as every one knows he is a thorough business man in every particular, it goes without saying that he will carry forward this work in such a manner as to make it a great financial success.

We are sorry to lose Mr. Rhoads as a citizen, as he is one of our most representative men and his place will be hard to fill.

Robert F. Hunter, one of Bellefonte's stockholders in the enterprise accompanied Mr. Rhoads to his new post of duty.

LAID TO REST.

Funeral of the Late Miss Alice Heverly Which Occurred Friday Afternoon.

Sad indeed were the last rites and ceremonies performed at the funeral of the late Alice Heverly, which took place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heverly, on South Pine street.

The Heverly home was crowded with friends and acquaintances of the departed one anxious to pay to her a last loving tribute of respect. The stricken parents and family had the heartfelt sympathy of all present and manifestations of sorrow were to be seen on all sides.

The floral tributes were profuse and beautiful. Among those received were designs from the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, her Sunday School class, her young lady associates and from the Centre Democrat force with which she was connected for some time.

The services were conducted by her pastor, Dr. William Laurie, of the Presbyterian church, who spoke very touchingly of the many loving qualities of the deceased.

In the procession to the grave eight of the young lady friends of Miss Heverly acted as honorary pall-bearers and carried the beautiful floral offerings. They were Misses Myrtle Longacre, Jennie Stover, Fannie Knisely, Janet Welsh, Mary Thompson, Ella Musser, Mary McGarvey and Mrs. Will Smith.

The pall-bearers were Samuel Taylor, Edward J. Lucas, Samuel Hart, Frank Derstine, Roger T Bayard and Earle C. Tuten.

Interment in the Union cemetery.
